WARREN COUNTY

More than fifty of the most distinguished leaders of York Rite and Scottish Rite Masonry assemble at a dinner honoring William E. Yeager Sr.

Governor Shafer selects Warren as the site of a district meeting of Republican committeemen and party leaders.

PENNSYLVANIA

The U.S. Senate fight involves a strong dove against a hawk, age against youth, and how the three-cornered race for president goes. The result Nov. 5 likely will be a cliffhanger.

THE NATION

The Apollo 7 astronauts spend a quiet Sunday running tests on their craft but are puzzled by mystery music coming from earth.

George C. Wallace issues his party platform. He promises a military victory in Vietnam if negotiations fail, increased social security payments, the restoration of law and order.

Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford says NATO allies are concerned over whether the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia was an isolated incident.

THE WORLD

Snipers open fire on National Guard soldiers after junta that overthrew Panamanian President Arias installed a provisional civilian-military government.

The Rhodesia summit talks end on the verge of total collapse, failing to settle the three-year crisis over the breakaway African colony under white minority rule.

SPORTS

Sheffield football fans are wearing top cat grins this morning; their Wolverines, 40-13 victors over Coudersport, were the lone winners among Warren County elevens over the weekend.

Warren High dropped a 12-7 decision at Olean, and errors both physical and mental stopped the Dragons time after time as they gave away the ball game. Youngsville came out on the short end of a 12-6 verdict against Union City, while Eisenhower took an 18-0 blanketing at the hands of Westfield.

A feeling of "well done" pervades Tidioute today as that town relaxes after the most successful Pennsylvania Fishing Tournament in its history. John Hudac of Pittsburgh reigns as the King of the Tournament, in which better than 2000 fishermen competed.

Purdue was shell-shocked by Ohio State, 15-0, Saturday, and the thought now is "Who'll be Number One?" Penn State is among the top contenders for the top spot in the college football rankings.

Los Angeles had to go some to do it, but the Rams pulled out a NFL victory over Green Bay in a rematch of last year's play-off game. St. Louis handed reeling Cleveland another defeat.

Kenya is the first nation to claim a gold medal as the Olympic Games get underway in Mexico City. Americans didn't fare too well in the distance events, but the U.S. team is expected to start earning its share of medals today.

NOT BUILT TO FLY

This car flew 55 feet through the air before crashing into these trees and coming to rest on its side. The driver, Fred Peters, and a passenger, James Meabon, both of Youngsville, were injured. Peters was admitted to the Warren General Hospital but Meabon was released after treatment. The accident took place on Rt. 27 north of Youngsville. The car skidded almost 500 feet before hitting an embankment and bouncing into the air. (Photo by Knight)

NATO Worried About Soviet Attitude

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, returning from a meeting of NATO allies in West Germany, said Sunday they are much concerned over whether the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia was an isolated incident or "there is more to come."

Clifford said a feeling of "immediacy and urgency" over the Soviet action exists among NATO leaders and his mission was to reaffirm American support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization alliance.

Clifford said his trip demonstrated to free Berlin and any would-be aggressor that the United States would extend "a full measure of assistance" in the event of any attack on West Germany.

In an airport news conference Clifford emphasized that the United States would "take whatever steps were appropriate" to maintain free access to Berlin. Clifford said that despite the allies' "deepening concern" over the Soviet Union's attitude, the United States did not intend to send more troops to Europe at this time.

There are more than 300,000 American troops in NATO countries now, Clifford said, and a number of divisions could be quickly airlifted from the United States to Europe on short notice if necessary.

Before returning to Washington, Clifford stopped off in Stuttgart for a meeting with U.S. military chiefs.

KISS FOR THE KING

John Hudac of Pittsburgh flashes a grin from behind his first-place trophy as wife Karen awards his efforts with a kiss Sunday afternoon. Hudac won the trophy and $150 for his winning catch in last weekend's Pennsylvania Fishing Tournament held in Tidioute, and was crowned King of the Tournament in ceremonies capping the two-day festival. Candidate George C. Wallace Issues His Party Platform

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George C. Wallace issued the campaign platform of his American Independent party Sunday and said he would review it plank by plank for the nation in speeches between now and election day.

The 13,000-word statement of the third-party candidate's principles contained few surprises among its programs to end "the fearful and inept leadership of our national parties."

Wallace said he was the document's chief author and guiding spirit, and the text does reflect the one-man flavor of his party by its sometimes use of the first person "I."

The former Alabama governor has voiced most of the platform's provisions, though usually in less specific terms, in numerous campaign speeches and interviews.

The platform advocates: —Increased social security payments, plus removal of earnings limitations on persons of 65 and over.

—Periodic reconfirmation of federal judges by the electorate and of Supreme Court justices by the Senate.

—A military victory in Vietnam if peace negotiations fail.

—Heavy reliance on the police to restore law and order to the cities.

—Full employment with the government hiring persons for public works projects if necessary.

—A program to ease problems in the cities by luring industry away from urban population centers.

Perhaps the least anticipated features of the platform were its health and welfare provisions.

That plank advocates an immediate increase in social security payments, an income tax deduction of the total amount spent for drugs and medical expenses and unlimited outside earnings for retired persons drawing social security.

District GOP Meeting Set Here

Governor Raymond P. Shafer has selected Warren as the site of the district meeting of Republican committeemen and other party leaders from Warren, Venango, McKean, Elk and Forest counties.

Governor Shafer delegated arrangements for the local meeting to William E. Rice, Warren County GOP chairman, and it was announced the session will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the large court room of Warren County Court House on Thursday. It is expected about 200 committee people and party officers will attend the meeting with the governor.

Jack Jordan, state Republican chairman and cabinet members will accompany the chief executive to this city.

Tonight Lt. Governor Raymond J. Broderick will be in Warren to attend a meeting of the county finance committee, the affair to be held at Camp Bullwinkle.

Astronauts Hear Mystery Music From Earth

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — The Apollo 7 astronauts, feeling chipper but over-eried, spent a quiet Sunday in space running tests on their craft, but were puzzled by mystery music coming from earth.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham reported hearing music drifting up to them as they passed over the Gulf of Mexico.

They said they heard a Houston radio station playing "Fools Rush in Where Angels Fear to Tread." It was the third time since the start of their 11-day flight that the astronauts, America's first three-man space crew, were serenaded from the ground.

Schirra reported his cold was clearing up and he was feeling better. Cunningham said he felt "in good shape" Sunday after taking a decongestant pill the night before.

Dr. Charles Berry, director of medical research and operations, told newsmen Cunningham didn't actually have a cold, but took the pill "as preventative medicine" after he started "getting a little stuffy." He said both Cunningham and Eisele had been treated for colds just prior to launch, and Schirra may have caught his cold then and carried it into space.

Like high-flying tourists, the astronauts took pictures of the earth throughout the day, shooting at what Mission Control called "targets of opportunity." Schirra reported he got good pictures of the Houston and the Tampa, Fla. areas.

The astronauts said they weren't happy with the sleeping bags designed for slumber beyond the earth's gravity. They preferred, they said to sleep strapped in their couches.

Arias Pledges Total War Against New Panama Regime

PANAMA (AP) — Snipers opened fire Sunday night on National Guard soldiers after the junta that overthrew President Arnulfo Arias installed a provisional civilian-military government, naming a Guard leader as president. Arias pledged a "total war" against the new regime.

At least three guardsmen were wounded. Other soldiers raced into the side streets of the downtown Maranon district hunting for the gunmen.

From his refuge in the U.S.-administered Canal Zone, Arias, ousted after 11 days in office, predicted his followers would soon start a general strike backed by urban guerrillas searching out guard leaders.

The shooting was about a mile from the presidential palace where Col. Jose M. Pinilla was sworn in as provisional president. Pinilla, who helped lead the bloodless coup that deposed Arias Friday night, said the new government would stay in power only until conditions permit the restoration of "civilian authority."

At Pinilla's side during the swearing-in ceremonies was Col. Bolivar Urrutia, described as a member of the government although his precise position was not made clear. When a first post-Arias government was announced Saturday, Urrutia and Pinilla were identified as its co-leaders.

The Panamanian capital buzzed with its usual Sunday pace. Downtown traffic was heavier than usual—apparently the result of a government decision to continue with the Sunday lottery. Hundreds jammed lottery ticket agencies despite a morning drizzle. Some shops were open.

The city also was awash with rumors of counter-action by Arias' supporters. There was talk of a general strike but no evidence to support it. The expectation was that Monday, when business usually resumes its week-day pace, would tell just what reaction would shape up in support of the 67-year-old president, who had been deposed twice before.

The small Christian Democratic party, whose candidate finished a poor third in the presidential elections, issued a communique calling on Panamanians to organize, oust the junta and restore civilian rule.

Arias and members of his cabinet were in refuge in the U.S.-controlled Panama Canal Zone.

Clarendon Area News

By SARAH M. SMITH

The Sheffield and Mead Township Golden Agers met at St. Paul's Center at Saybrook on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 8th, for a 1 p.m. dinner. Three new members were welcomed to the group - Myrtle M. Stranburg of Tiona and Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Ecklund of Clarendon. Two visitors were also welcomed - Mrs. Charles Miller of Warren and Mrs. Genevieve Bidwell from New York.

The Youngsville Golden Age Group were guests on this lovely golden autumn afternoon. President Ernest Huber gave a very friendly welcome to them and to all present and opened the meeting with prayer and gave the table blessing. The delicious tureen dinner was served from a buffet table loaded with a great variety of tasty foods as are always prevalent at these gatherings. The tables were gay with yellow place mats and yellow daisy napkins and many lovely bouquets of fall flowers.

Seventy nine members and guests were present, 26 attending from Youngsville.

A letter from the Warren Area Center, 800 Pennsylvania ave. west, written by Mary Crozier, was read by the secretary, an invitation to use the facilities when in Warren. Mrs. Crozier herself welcomed everyone and stressed the facilities offered of classes, games, rest and coffee and of other help available for every one in Warren County. Mrs. Robert Jones spoke of starting a star center in Sheffield, to help all adults in need of help in sickness, travel, etc. It was also stated that a dollar per year makes one a member of "Experience Inc.", sponsoring organization.

President Huber asked Father John Carter to be spiritual adviser to the group again. He responded with words of acceptance and of welcome to all. Announcement was made that a representative from the Social Security Office in Jamestown would be at the Warren Area center on Friday Oct. 18, at 1:30 p.m.

The Youngsville ladies then presented a very cute play, "Sardines". The scene of the play was Mrs. Layton's living room. She is entertaining at a dinner party for her socialite friend, a writer from New York. Many comical conversations and situations occurred which were much enjoyed by all. The players who took part were: Mrs. Eaton, Marion Lackey, Lizzie Pike, Nina Crippen, Lucy Watkins, Hettie Pilling, the writer, Miss Carroll, Alice Shurwin and the maid Alfreda Doodittle, Laurie Fales. The play was very entertaining and much credit was given each one who took part.

The Diamond Grange Kitchen Band then royally entertained, starting with their Theme Song, "Hello Friends, Hello Neighbors." They played many old favorites such as "Side By Side", "It Is No Secret", "Mocking Bird Hill", "Somebody Good", "Never Grow Old", "Take Me Out To The Ball Game", and closed with "God Bless America", with all joining in the chorus. Members of the band are, Olive DeGolyer, Fern Hannold, Neva Champion, Mabel Blair, Mabel Nobles, Alice Bean, Myrtle Stranburg, Eva Whitsell, Cell Wykoff, Ruth Reiff, Mabel Rapp, with Marie Crocker at the piano, and Anna Johnson at the drums.

Father Carter led the assembly in the chorus of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart", the second time it was sung omitting all pronouns which caused much fun and mixups.

The closing hymn was sung in honor of the Youngsville group who stood as all joined in singing, "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again". It was a fine gathering and one long to be remembered.

Committees for the day were: Kitchen committee, Mr. and Mrs. William Shea, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shirey; dining room committee, Mrs. Ida Christenson, Mrs. Louisa Taylor; program committee, Neva Champion and Anna Johnson. Much credit and many thanks are due the committees. Those for the November meeting will be Mrs. Marie Loomis, Mrs. Mattie Bidwell, and Mrs. Harold Elder.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bullock Sr. were hosts the weekend of September 28, for relatives attending the wedding of their son, Millard and Margaret Wiltse, which took place at Frewsburg, New York. Included were Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Burr from Phoenix, Ariz.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burr, Leavittsburg, Ohio; Mrs. John Case and Mrs. Bessie Weir from Warren Ohio, and their son Dennis from Meadville, Pa.

Miss Kathryn Kennedy with a group of friends enjoyed a trip to Niagara Falls on Wednesday.

Youth Injured While Hunting

Saturday marked the first day of the hunting season and the first accidental shooting of the season.

Dale Fox, 16, 424 Poplar st., suffered a wound in the left leg when a companion dropped a 20 gauge shotgun which discharged as it hit the ground.

Fox was walking along a logging road off Chapman Dam rd. with two companions, Earl G. Lay, Brown st., Clarendon, and Roger S. Madigan, Cayuga st. State police said Fox bumped into Madigan who was carrying the gun. The gun had a defective safety, they said, and when the barrel hit the ground it discharged blowing the barrel into Fox's foot.

The youth was admitted at Warren General Hospital where officials said his condition was satisfactory.

Ski Resort Operators May Seek Injunction

SINCLAIRVILLE, N.Y. — Ski resort operators in Chautauque, Cattaraugus and Erie counties announced this weekend they may go into court to seek an injunction in an attempt to block a cloud seeding program.

The federally financed program is designed to test the practicality of dispersing heavy lake effect snow storms coming in from Lake Erie.

By seeding clouds with snow producing crystals atmospheric scientists would seek to break up the regular snowfall pattern. Specifically the scientists would be trying to break up the heavier snow storms so that instead of the snows being dumped in the traditional snow belt areas the new lighter snows would be spread over a wider area.

Ski resort operators at Peak 'n Peak near Clymer, Eagle Ridge near Mayville and Cockaigne near Sinclairville claim their properties were selected and developed because of the heavy lake effect snow storms

Erie Motorists In Collision

Two Erie motorists were involved in a rear end collision Sunday on Rt. 6 west of Youngsville. Boleslaw Stanley Budny, 52, 747 E. 23rd st., stopped for a car ahead and was hit from behind by an auto driven by Richard Tollen, 34, 812 W. 16th st., state police reported.

Yeager

United States, further presentations were made to commemorate the occasion.

Richard A. Gilson, Worshipful Master of Joseph Warren Lodge No. 726 F. & A.M., presented to the Masonic Temple Association, a color photographic reproduction of an oil portrait of William E. Yeager, painted while he was Right Worshipful Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania, and which hangs now in the Grand Lodge in Philadelphia. It was accepted on behalf of the association by Paul Mathis, Secretary and Past Worshipful Master of North Star Lodge No. 241.

Ralph W. Whitehill, Past Master of Joseph Warren Lodge No. 726, presented a plaque to Yeager, attesting to the warm affection and appreciation of his fellow members for his years of service to the lodge.

Brother George A. Newbury, Sovereign Grand Commander, Supreme Council A.A.S.R., gave the chief address of the evening, closing by presenting to the guest of honor a bound volume containing letters from members of Yeager's own lodge and of Masonic bodies throughout the nation, conveying their tributes to his accomplishments during his illustrious half century not only in the service of Masonry, but for youth through his work as Boy's Director of the Warren and Hazleton Y.M.C.A.'s, and in the Boy Scout Movement, for which he was awarded the coveted silver beaver; as well as the signatures of everyone attending the testimonial banquet.

Toastmaster for the evening was Karl G. Timm, Past Master Joseph Warren Lodge 726. Invocation and benediction were pronounced by Brother G. Mason Cochran, Grand Chaplain, Grand Lodge of Pa. F. & A.M. A number of the distinguished guests spoke briefly, as visiting dignitaries were introduced by Illustrious Brother William E. Yeager Jr., 33 degree Past Master Joseph Warren Lodge No. 726.

During his address, George A. Newbury discussed the mission of Freemasonry: "It would which dump large quantities of snow in the three areas. They maintain their investments would be jeopardized if the snow fall patterns were changed artificially. They also said they intend to stop the cloud seeding experiment even if they have to get a court injunction.

Dr. Vincent J. Schaefer, director of the State University of New York atmospheric science research center, discovered the technique being used in the project. Two years ago he told the Chautauque County Press Club that there was a strong possibility snow storms over urban areas could be diverted to ski resort areas using his technique thus aiding the cause of resort owners.

Autumn Foliage Causes Traffic Jam

The trees of Warren County were full of the golden colors of autumn this past weekend and its roads were full of cars. Pennsylvania ave. in Warren became so heavy with motorists intent on viewing the foliage Sunday that auxiliary police were called out to direct traffic at major intersections.

Modern banking techniques were born during the Holy Crusades. Crusaders wished to send money home and to borrow money while in the Near East. Thus, letters of credit came into common use whereby monies put on deposit in Europe could be drawn in the form of credit in the Near East.

seem to me the mission of Freemasonry is the promotion of brotherhood among men so desperately needed in this day and age. This is the task for which Masonry is well fitted, and shall by reason of our teachings and activities we are in a splendid position to promote brotherhood, not only within the Craft, but throughout the world."

Infantrymen Participate In Sharp Clashes

SAIGON (AP) — Vietnamese infantrymen who joined U.S. Marines to shield the threatened Thuong Duc Special Forces camp reported they killed 33 North Vietnamese soldiers in a string of sharp clashes that ended Sunday.

Spokesmen said the American Leathernecks had wiped out 46 North Vietnamese regulars in a pitched predawn battle Saturday. The announced two-day total of enemy dead thus was 79 in the fight for the Green Beret base in foothills 30 miles southwest of Da Nang.

B52 bombers, trying to catch enemy units that are pulling back to avoid the allied sweep, dropped nearly 375 tons of bombs along an arc five miles north of the camp.

The isolated camp and district headquarters beside the Vu Gia River came under heavy attack two weeks ago by massing North Vietnamese army units that seized two of the camp's outposts in initial assaults.

The outposts were recovered when a reaction force of several hundred government Mobile Strike Force troops battled their way into the camp.

Eight Injured In Weekend Accidents

Eight persons were injured in automobile accidents Saturday.

Fred Peters, 21, 167 Poplar st., Youngsville, and James Meabon, 19, 269 W. Main st., Youngsville were hurt in a one car crash which demolished their vehicle.

State police said Peters was driving the car along Rt. 27 about four miles north of Youngsville when the auto left the road and skidded 290 foot along the south berm. The car careened 150 feet diagonally across the highway, traveled 67 feet off the road before striking an embankment and flying 55 feet in the air and smashing into a clump of trees nine feet off the ground.

Peters was admitted to Warren General Hospital with a concussion and body lacerations. His condition was listed as satisfactory. Meabon was treated at the hospital for head and arm lacerations and released. A truck collided with two cars of Rt. 69 south of Sugar Grove earlier injuring four.

The truck operated by Herman L. Mathe, 41, 66 Lakin ave., Jamestown, N.Y., crossed the center of the road, troopers said, and struck first a southbound car driven by Donald M. Hart, 41, 12 1/2 Buchanan st., and then a second southbound car operated by Paul Wilcox, 55, RD 1, Youngsville.

Mathe suffered a concussion and possible rib fractures and was admitted to Warren General. His condition was satisfactory. Hart and a passenger, Isabel Reid, Chancellors Valley, were treated at the hospital as was a passenger in the Wilcox auto, James Kysor, RD 1, Youngsville.

Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $3,000.

James Howard Allen, 17, 123 Russell st., swerved to miss a dog on a street off Jackson ave. in Glade twp., Saturday night and his car went out of control and rolled over. Allen was thrown from the car. He was treated at Warren General Hospital. B. F. Baxter, 64, 109 Main st., Russell, suffered minor injuries when his car hit a row of guard rails along Rt. 62 north of Warren. Baxter, who had just received an antibiotic injection at the hospital, blacked out at the wheel, troopers said.

ASCS Payments In County Total $33,217

Gerald Bensink, office manager Warren County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, announces that payments just made under the soil bank program of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture to land owners in Warren County, total $33,217.

Sixty-one contracts are in effect this year.

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) Bensink explains is a long-range retirement of land from production up to 10 years. All contracts under this plan expire next year. About half of them ended this year. No new contracts have been written under this so-called soil bank program since 1960.

Payments are also being made under the Cropland Adjustment Program (CAP).

There are at present 25 farms under contract under the CAP in Warren County. These run from 5 to 10 acres. The program began in 1966. It is expected these payments will total around $6,900.

CAP is similar to the soil bank program, Bensink says. It involves retirement from production of wheat, alfalfa, and seed grain bases along with other eligible land. Its purpose is to prevent surpluses and to return land to soil conserving crops, such as the planting of trees or grass cover to prevent erosion, Bensink said.

Advisory Group Meets Tonight

Traffic, parking and urban renewal are among the topics of reports to be submitted to the Citizens Advisory Committee at its meeting at 8 p.m. today in the municipal building.

A joint committee will submit a report concerning traffic on Pennsylvania ave., John Hanna will give a progress report on low cost housing program; a special subcommittee will reveal the results of its research into the possibilities of redevelopment in downtown Warren; and the group will be briefed on the progress of the Liberty Street Urban renewal program and action taken last week by the Redevelopment Authority.

Plans to relieve parking problems in the downtown area will be submitted by the parking authority.

Mrs. Lee Segel will present a paper on how the borough master plan can be used to better redevelop and manage the growth of Warren and its suburban areas.

The European stalling, the bane of those charged with keeping public buildings clean, was first brought to America in 1890 by a zealous group that planned to introduce all the birds mentioned by Shakespeare.

Youngsville Homecoming Was Gala Day

It was homecoming day in Youngsville Saturday and one of the loveliest aspects of the event was the homecoming queen and her court. Shown here at the Youngsville football game are (left to right) Bonnie Weldon, Debbie Chappel, Debbie Zalik, Zanyah Ahmad, Lynette Rhodes, Homecoming Queen Sonna Chapman and Nancy Clark. Homecoming activities were marked by ceremonies during the game and a student council sponsored carnival in the school cafeteria.

By FRANCES RHODES

The weather was just about what everybody ordered for the Youngsville Homecoming on Saturday—warm, calm, dry. The fans turned out in force. The Eagles, though they lost to Union City 12-6 gave a creditable performance.

The color guard, twirlers and cheerleaders made splashes of color and movement that matched well with the newly autumn-bright landscape. The High School marching band, with Gloria Stec as drum major, provided proper melodic pomp and circumstance for the ceremonial crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

Last year's queen, Margot Finlan, and the seven members of the 1968 Homecoming Court moved onto the athletic field and through the ranks of the band by motorcade, then ascended a platform facing the home team bleachers.

To an accompaniment of drum rolls and cheers, Miss Finlan crowned Sonna Chapman of Bear Lake as the new Homecoming Queen. The crowd paid her silent homage as the band played in her honor a stately version of "Climb Every Mountain."

Sonna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Chapman, has been a cheerleader since ninth grade and this year is captain of the group. She was a member of the 1968 May Day Court, stage manager of the Junior Class Play, and is active in the Future Teachers of America and the Senior High Student Council. She is taking the commercial course.

The members of Queen Sonna's court were Zanyah Ahmad, Deborah Chappel, Nancy Clark, Lynette Rhodes, Bonnie Weldon and Debbie Zalik.

After the game the Student Council-sponsored carnival in the school cafeteria became the focus of attention. Fifteen school clubs had decorated booths and offered everything from a movie on skiing to fresh doughnuts and cider, games of skill, and jail or ball. The proceeds will help cut down on the number of fund-raising efforts the groups will need to make.

Hendricksons to Celebrate Golden Wedding Saturday

Fifty years ago this week, an influenza epidemic closed the school at Coopertrack, a small lumber town in Forest County, so the young schoolma'am decided to put the unexpected vacation to good use. She got married. Lottie Luella Deshner became the wife of Frank William Hendrickson. The wedding was performed in the Presbyterian manse in Tionesta by the Rev. J. W. Cribbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson will celebrate their Golden Wedding next Saturday with a family dinner party at their home, 13 Bates st., Youngsville—next door to the house where they "went to housekeeping" after their wedding on October 17, 1918.

They have spent all of their married life in Youngsville; as children, they grew up in Mayburg, Forest County, where their parents were neighbors.

Mr. Hendrickson is the president of Youngsville Borough Council, executive secretary of the Youngsville Cemetery Association, and a trustee of Roberts Wesleyan College, North Chili, N.Y. He was a member of the former Youngsville School Board from 1936 to 1948 and served two terms on the board of election.

He retired from the National Forge in August 1962, having gone to work there about a year before he was married.

Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson have been actively associated with the Youngsville Free Methodist Church throughout their marriage.

Mr. Hendrickson resigned as Sunday School Superintendent last August after a total of 31 years in the post. Mrs. Hendrickson is secretary of the Women's Missionary Society, church news recorder, and taught the beginners' Sunday School class for 25 consecutive years.

Mrs. Hendrickson still has her white georgette wedding dress and her wedding slippers. Photographs of the wedding will be a highlight of the celebration dinner party which will be attended by Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson's two daughters, Dorothy and Carmen, and their respective families.

Dorothy is Mrs. Fred Wer-muth Jr., of Rochester, N.Y. She has two sons, "Fritz" (Frederick III) who is on military service, and Thomas, at college in Gunnison, Colorado; and a daughter, Jacqueline, who is to be married in December.

Carmen is Mrs. Richard C. Huling of Irvine, and she has three children, Nord, Rebecca and Lars.

Ludlow Area News and Notes

By Mrs. Hildur Wenstran

All three supervisors attended the fall convention at the De Soto Inn at Bradford on October 3. At this meeting a special appeal was made concerning the problems created by the teenagers in the communities of the county. The supervisors in the townships were asked to stress the need for more strict parent supervision among this age group.

For this reason all supervisors were asked to set aside this week of October 27 through November 2 as "Parents, do you know where your children are, Week?" The local supervisors, along with the local police force, hope this resolution will be brought to the parents attention and urge their cooperation.

The supervisors voted unanimously to purchase a Glenhill tail gate spreader, a piece of equipment which will be most useful as the winter sets in, to keep the township roads in even better condition when clandering and salting becomes necessary.

The supervisors agreed to ask the Dept. of Highways to use Route 308 known to local people as Gibbs Hill as a detour while Route 321 or North Kane Road is being rebuilt. This Route 308 will become even more heavily traveled with so many Kiasutha Recreation travelers already noted these past two summers. The influx of travel will probably begin early next spring. While using this road as a detour it means that the State Highways will be responsible for the upkeep and maintenance of this route as long as it is being used as a detour.

The supervisors noted with pride the progress of the Ludlow Fire Co. and the following men have been named as fire police: Millard R. French, William D. Campbell, Leland C. Engman, Harry L. Carl, Joseph Kosinski and Eugene Kallin. The supervisors agreed to give the men their police hats and to purchase fire police badges for them.

The supervisors decided to reduce the Auxiliary Police Force to four men, Irvin Stenberg, Ernest Anderson, M. R. French and Dean Walters. New badges will be purchased for their use.

The supervisors also wish to thank the following men who so generously have given of their free time the past year and for their services as Auxiliary police: William Campbell, Chuck Fetceck, Ted Snyder, Russell Kearney, Neil Davidson, Paul Carley and Eugene Lucia now serving as constable.

During the monthly police report by Lawrence Larson, a discussion was held concerning the numerous complaints of dogs running loose in the community. Under Act No. 437 relating to dogs in Article VII Section 702 it states: It shall be unlawful for the owner or keeper of any dog to fail to keep at all times such dog either (1) confined within the premises of the owner, or (2) firmly secured by means of a collar and chain or other device so that it cannot stray beyond the premises on which it is secured. It has been noted that dogs are also following children to school and creating a hazardous problem. The dog law will be strictly enforced immediately with fines levied against violators.

The summer road project of resurfacing Central ave., Hillside ave., and major part of Water Street, has been completed and final inspection from the Clearfield office has been approved. It is hoped that more sections can be resurfaced next year. This is a costly procedure but the taxpayer's money is being used to give the best and safest of travels on our local streets.

The supervisors have voted to install mercury vapor lighting in all street lights throughout the town. These lights were installed on Route 6 thru Ludlow last year and have become popular among the residents. It was decided to increase their use and so by Jan. 1, 1969, all new lights will have been installed.

The supervisors have an ordinance prepared on Boat and Trailer Parking on which action will be resolved at the November meeting.

The Reader Speaks

Dear Sir:

In regard to your unpleasant but matter of fact article in Friday's TMO: "Health Hazard Generates in Limestone Township. . . Action should be taken to alleviate the situation."

Actually, action was initiated 10 years ago with the creation of the Warren County Planning and Zoning Commission. Further action was taken in 1965 when the county commissioners adopted the Warren County Zoning Ordinance and the Warren County Subdivision regulations. Had Limestone Township adopted the county zoning ordinance (7 of the 21 townships are zoned) the present situation in Limestone Township might not exist. Ugly situations are evident in zoned areas of the county also, but the serious problem generating in Limestone would have been controlled some time ago under the zoning laws.

Warren County is prime recreation territory, probably some of the best in the northeastern United States. Warren County is for all practical purposes, when compared to other exploited recreation areas, virgin recreation territory. Warren County has not yet begun to see the influx of people that are coming here to live, play and to build "seasonal homes" or "weekend retreats."

In order to protect the natural resources of Warren County, in order to protect the property owner and in order to safeguard the health, safety and general welfare of every citizen in Warren County, each township must eventually adopt zoning regulations, including Limestone Township.

How to Forget the Main Issue

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — It is not easy for two Presidential candidates to get overlooked or pushed aside in their own election, but that almost seems to be happening to Vice President Humphrey and Richard Nixon in North Carolina.

You couldn't exactly say they were ignored, but they have been damned with such faint praise in most places that they almost seem to get lost in a torrent of side issues.

George Wallace may or may not carry this state, but he is clearly the main topic of political conversation here and the one thing most of the state candidates seem determined to avoid is saying anything that might irritate Mr. Wallace's supporters.

This whole election seems at different points to have been dominated by some individual who was not really the main issue, President Johnson dominated for a while until he began to listen to what the people were saying and then had the good judgment to get out.

Senator Eugene McCarthy became topic No. 1 after George Romney stumbled, and after that Senator Robert Kennedy took the spotlight until he was killed. Then coming after Kennedy was Governor Wallace with his threats to veto the 20th century.

Even some minor characters in this astonishing drama have managed from time to time to crowd out both Mr. Humphrey and Mr. Nixon. Spiro Agnew of Maryland suddenly appeared at Miami Beach and Mayor Daley was Mr. Big in Chicago, and even now Vice President Humphrey still seems to be getting the blame for everything that has gone wrong there since the Chicago fire.

Even here on the campus of the University of North Carolina, with its long progressive tradition and its record of supporting the Democratic party, the argument is not centering this weekend on the relative merits of Mr. Humphrey and Mr. Nixon. The editor of the student newspaper is still fighting the battle of Chicago. The Vice President must go because of his association with Mayor Daley, because he is vague about Vietnam, and because, according to the editor, he has a style of thought and action . . . applicable to Depression and post-Depression eras but not to the present and the future.

Mr. Nixon is not mentioned at all. The campus liberals, or at least many of them, are willing to take him because he didn't fight Senator McCarthy or work for President Johnson. This seems to be enough for them now, and it will be interesting to see whether it sustains them through four years of a Nixon Administration.

The attitudes of the candidates for the House of Representatives in North Carolina are equally interesting and probably more practical. The new Sixth District, according to The Charlotte Observer, is a fairly good example of the pattern.

The candidates in the Sixth, Richardson Preyer, Democrat, and William L. Osteen, Republican, are tiptoeing around the Wallace issue and saying very little about Mr. Nixon and Mr. Humphrey. In fact, when Mr. Preyer mentions the Vice President, it is mainly to point out their disagreements rather than their agreements.

This seems to be Mr. Humphrey's problem in many other places; ignored by the other Democratic candidates, rejected by many of his former friends in the universities, and saddled with the Johnson record and personality.

The clear issue of character, personality and policy between the two candidates is not brought into focus, and Mr. Nixon, who benefits by all the diversions and obscurantism of the day, is determined to avoid the debates that would bring them into focus.

Even the television is working unconsciously against Mr. Humphrey. If he talks sense for half an hour, which he sometimes does, and there is a momentary demonstration on in the back of the hall, the cameras will concentrate on the demonstration and minimize his speech.

It is all very strange. What could have been a fairly simple choice between two experienced and familiar men has been transformed into a tangle of side issues and diversions, and the more tangled it becomes, the more Mr. Nixon benefits by it.

Times Have Changed

HARRISBURG --Politics used to be elementary. The party in power said, "Look at our record. Re-elect us." And the party that was not in power said, "Throw the rascals out."

In those somewhat elementary days claims and charges were thrown about helter-skelter and it was considered beastly poor form for one party to look into the charges and claims of the other. Times have indeed changed a bit.

Republicans started it with a national "Truth Squad" that followed Democratic candidates around. On the state scene, just recently the Democratic party established a "FACTS" (For the Advancement of the Corroborated Truth About Shamer) Squad. And the Republicans counterattacked on the state level with another Truth Squad.

Curiously, virtually nothing has been heard much from either of the Republican groups, but the FACTS Squad seemingly is gleefully having fun at the expense of the GOP, mostly because of the publication of a Republican Progress Report.

The "progress report" is a well-printed booklet, with a cover showing a House of Representatives voting lever, and an inscription that reads: "The years are 104, the nays 99. The bill passes finally." The inference of course is that the 104 Republican members of the House all voted "yea" to put over the legislation alluded to in the "progress report" and that the 99 Democratic House members all voted against the legislation in question.

Democrats in high political huff and froth started tearing the booklet apart right at the cover, pointing out that not one bill was passed in the House by a 104-99 vote. Now who would have expected anyone to go to the trouble of checking that?

The Republican Progress report listed 176 pledges and an accompanying "news" release said that the Republican party "has made good on 94.4 percent of its 1966 platform pledges." This included 25 items marked with a "Y" to indicate that a bill to carry out the pledges has not been introduced.

The FACTS Squad has not yet got around to releasing the following story, but it was told to this columnist by a member, John Pittenger, Lancaster.

"We checked to find out just which bills had been introduced and why they hadn't been moved," he said. "We were able to run down 16 of the bills, but not nine of the others."

"Since the progress report was signed by the Republican leadership in the House, we called down to their office and requested them to identify the other nine bills."

"They said they didn't have anything to do with it, despite the fact it was signed by their leaders, and passed the buck to the Governor's office."

"We called there and they promised to identify the bills for us. But that was two weeks ago and we haven't heard from them since. The last time I called they just laughed."

The latest report of the FACTS Squad co-chairmen, Representative Herbert Fine and Senator Ernest P. Kline, challenged Republican claims about fiscal responsibility.

They noted that the Republican "progress report" had claimed complete fulfillment of 1966 campaign promises to "continue a sound fiscal policy. . . balance the budget. . . and establish a Tax Revision Commission to review and revise the equity of the entire state and local tax system."

The Democratic Floor leaders of the House and Senate opined:

"It stretches the imagination to claim fiscal responsibility when an administration has placed the highest tax burden in Commonwealth history on the people of Pennsylvania, an annual total of $374 million and ten new taxes in a single year."

"It takes even more temerity to claim fiscal responsibility when you have hired a public relations man to write speeches at $50 per hour, with an overall cost of at least $75,000 annually."

But Governor Shafer outdid himself when he claimed fulfillment of the pledge to establish a Tax Commission. It is true that the Tax Commission was established and that it did meet and did make recommendations.

"But it also is true that the Governor ignored the recommendations and went his own way in proposing his own 'Dirty Dozen' tax program—a program that resulted in Pennsylvania having the highest sales tax in the nation, the highest cigarette tax and highest liquor taxes."

JIM BISHOP

'How To Handle A Woman'

One of man's duties, so I've learned, is to keep his wife reasonably happy. This is impossible, even when love is in permanent bloom, because he knows that her emotional life is akin to a runaway roller coaster. Yesterday's electrifying kiss is today's fuse breaker.

Now and then, I have read some of the feminine mystique magazines to find out exactly what will turn a wife on. I already know what will turn her off. Hawthorn Books has sent a skinny volume, written by Miss Jani Gardner of Cincinnati, entitled "How to Handle A Woman." It was ridiculous of me to assume I knew how. Miss Gardner has some wild ideas. Gentlemen, try these for size:

"Get the clock in her car fixed. Send a masseuse to the house the morning after. Hire an ugly secretary. Fluff up pillow before she gets into bed. Ask her to meet you after work for a drink."

Take a deep breath, fellas. Ready?

"Go out for pizza at midnight. When you're absolutely sure she has no perfume on, ask her what perfume she has on. Wind her watch. Write her a note about how special she is and tuck it into her lingerie drawer. Carry her over the threshold again."

Groovy?

"Tell her she doesn't need a bit of makeup. Get her a gift subscription to Playboy. Have a jigsaw puzzle made of your wedding picture. When she finishes it, tell her you're glad she was able to get the two of you together. Don't ask who she's talking to on the phone. Buy her a pair of silk stockings and put them on her."

Watch out for ladders.

"Ask her if she'll let you brush her hair. Scold her for eyeing handsome men in the street. If she doesn't, scold her anyway. Send her a daisy with the last three petals still on it. Tell her you want to burn your marriage certificate so the two of you can live in sin. Bite the hand that feeds you."

Don't quit now, Dad. Stay with me.

"Drive to the nearest lovers' lane and make out. Don't go too far. At a party, offer her some salted peanuts and say: 'I wish they were emeralds.' Charles McCarthy won Helen Hayes with that one. Paddle her somewhere in a canoe. When her dressmaker makes her hostess pajamas, get her to make a throw pillow out of the remaining fabric. Your guests will get the picture."

Yep.

"Tell her you want her to be tan all over. No lines. Put a water lily in the bathtub. Wink at her. Throw out all your pajamas, and hers. Ask her what she dreamed about last night. Go to a drive-in movie and don't watch the movie. Tell her that her classmates look much older than she does."

And more stupid?

"Tickle her when you zip her up. Spray the inside of her car with her favorite scent. Feed her grapes. . . one by one. Insure her legs for $1,000,000 with Lloyd's of London. Replace all the wire hangers in her closet with fancy plastic ones. Return her overdue library books and pay the fines."

If Miss Gardner ever marries, I want to meet him.

"Take her to a horror movie and squeeze her when it gets scary. Tell her she laughs like a little girl. Wash her back in the bathtub. Hold hands in church. Kiss the hem of her garment. You don't have to get down on your hands and knees to do this anymore. Tell her she has spoiled you."

This column should break up a few thousand marriages.

"Make her a turkey sandwich with Russian dressing, lettuce and cranberry sauce. Cut off the crusts and stick toothpicks through the four pieces. Kiss her starting from her hand to her shoulder, neck, cheek and lips. With your eyes closed. Ask her to tell you all of her sizes. She'll spend hours trying to figure out what you have in mind."

How about a neck size and twenty feet of rope?

"Now is the time to plot out your New Year's resolutions. This year will be a tough act to follow."

Not the way I played it. . .

Rural Poor and Rural Rich

WASHINGTON--The case against Congress was dramatized poignantly during the rush for adjournment by its treatment of the rural poor and the rural rich. In shocking contrast, Congress slashed food-stamp funds for impoverished cotton pickers, but voted more subsidies for millionaire ranchers.

An attempt to place a $20,000 limit on what a single farmer can collect from the government each year was scuttled. The behind-the-scenes maneuver illustrates how a few powerful old men can override the will of the majority in Congress.

By 230-to-160 vote, the House adopted the $20,000 limit over the protests of 68-year-old Agriculture Chairman W. R.

"Bob" Poage of Waco, Tex. He also led the fight to cut back food stamps, which the poor can redeem at their country stores for needed groceries.

The resourceful Poage, however, knows how to operate in the back rooms of Congress to overcome a vote against him. He made a quiet deal with 78-year-old Senate Agriculture Chairman Allen Ellender of Houma, La., to push through a simple one-year extension of the existing farm programs.

They agreed to ignore all amendments, including the $20,000 subsidy ceiling. Ellender was raised on a rundown, 300-acre family plantation appropriately named Hard Scrabble, and Poage was brought up on a dusty ranch in Throckmorton County, Tex. In their youth both learned what it was like to scratch a living from the earth. But old age and affluent living apparently have changed their sense of values.

In the 11 Texas counties that Poage represents in Congress, more than 37 per cent of the people are living below the poverty level. Barely one-tenth of one per cent qualify for agriculture payments above $5,000.

Yet last year, thanks largely to Poage, the one-tenth of one per cent collected $5,318,892 in government handouts. The impoverished 37 per cent collected a pathetic $224,200 in food assistance.

In Ellender's home state of Louisiana, more than 35 per cent of the people live in poverty, only five-hundredths of one per cent qualify for farm subsidies above $5,000. Yet the tiny fraction collected a whopping $21,986,600 in farm benefits, while the 35 per cent received only $5,304,747 in food assistance.

One farm alone, owned by the Delta and Pine Land Company, collected $653,252 from Uncle Sam last year. Another Louisiana farm, owned by the South Coast Corporation, received a $280,780 payment.

Poage and Ellender ramrodded the one-year, amendment-free extension through the Senate-House conference. Then Poage brought his neat

LeMay vs. LeMay

Poor General LeMay. He has become the outstanding illustration of the political naivete of . . . what? His critics, many of whom are professional critics of the military, will say that he is the outstanding illustration of the political naivete of the military.

Whereas the correct formulation is merely that he is an outstanding illustration of the political naivete of the politically naive.

General LeMay, to use language he would find familiar, was a damn fool for consenting to run with George Wallace. A damn fool for the reason that the policies he seeks to promote are gravely subverted by the association. The only excuses he might have had for signing up with Wallace were (a) that Wallace might win; or (b) that running with Wallace, he might promote, and win the public around to, his positions on national defense. One hopes that, at West Point, they would dunk a cadet who reasoned that either (a) or (b) was in the least likely.

In fact General LeMay succeeded, in the space of a few minutes, in rendering his altogether defensible theses concerning the uses of nuclear energy in military affairs even more unspeakable than they had theretofore been. Although the general went to some lengths exactly to give his position, it was promptly, and thoroughly, and if I may say so intentionally, misunderstood by just about everybody in sight.

What he said was that he did not see any difference between the use of nuclear means or other means of killing people, which point should certainly appear to be obvious, certainly to the people killed. Then he went on to say that he was opposed to the use of nuclear weapons in Vietnam, but of course that was much too late, much much too late. And we are now treated to the indelicate spectacle of George Wallace visibly worrying about the loose-mouthedness of one of the finest generals, and one of the most meticulous military thinkers of the postwar age. It became a joke overnight.

General LeMay has written an excellent book, "America Is in Danger," which shatters many of the prevalent superstitions regarding nuclear weapons. But so help me, if I were running for political office, I think I would now know enough not to say that a book was a good book even if it is a good book, if it so much as mentions nuclear weapons. Indeed, a conservative politician running for national office should not permit the word "nuclear" to cross his lips. Not even to say: "I hate nuclear weapons."

There is, of course, the classic example, of which poor General LeMay is apparently ignorant. It was a press conference four years ago where a reporter asked Senator Goldwater what he would do if elected president to interdict the travel from north to south Vietnam of the guerrillas under the shadow of the great forests. He replied: "There have been several suggestions made. I don't think we would use any of them. But the defoliation of the forest by low-yield atomic weapons could well be done. When you remove the foliage you remove the cover." Headlines: New York Herald Tribune: "GOLDWATER'S NUCLEAR PLAN TO WIN VIET."

New York Times: "GOLDWATER URGES NEW VIETNAM AID: WOULD USE ATOMIC WEAPONS TO CLEAR RED SUPPLY LINES." Washington Post: "A-ATTACK ON VIET JUNGLE PROPOSED BY little package, shorn of the $20,000 subsidy limit, back to the House for approval.

Under normal procedures, the House should have taken up the conference agreement first. This would have given it the option of sending the agreement back to the conference with instructions to restore the $20,000 limit.

The Poage and Ellender ignored custom and sent the conference agreement to the Senate, which approved it and dismissed the conferees. Thus the House was left with only two alternatives—either accept the one-year extension or reject the entire agriculture-subsidy program. Enough Congressmen decided to go along with the extension to give Poage a 189-to-172 majority.

The lion's share of the farm subsidies goes to cotton growers, whose champion in the Senate is Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss. He is an outspoken foe of government spending, except to enrich cotton farmers. Again and again he has joined forces with Ellender to increase cotton benefits.

It just happens that Eastland is one of the biggest cotton growers in Mississippi. He owns a 5,800-acre plantation which his granddaddy bought for $1 an acre but which is now worth more than $3 million.

His Eastland Plantation, Inc., collected a generous $157,930 subsidy from Uncle Sam in 1967. Another $22,314 payment was made for acreage which he owns jointly with his cousin, H.C. Eastland. In addition, H.C. got $31,120 in farm supports for land in his own name.

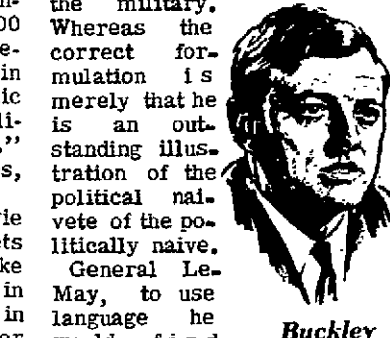

All told, the Eastland interests tangled $211,364 out of the government at the same time that Eastland was denouncing government spending and decrying the waste of money on poverty programs.

There is disagreement over the plight of the 84 sharecroppers who work the Senator's farm outside the sleepy town of Dadds, Miss. They appear to be better off than Negro tenant farmers elsewhere in the Delta region. Those who could be interviewed gave the impression that Eastland is a paternal plantation owner.

But Andrew Hawkins, a 45-year-old former cotton chopper, now chairman of the Mississippi Free-Labor Union, tells a different story. When he was working strikes for higher wages for farm workers in Eastland's corner of the Delta, Hawkins claimed that some field workers were paid 30 cents an hour for a 10-hour day and that some tractor drivers earned no more than 60 cents an hour.

Workers on the Eastland plantation, he said, were so poor that they sold moonshine to supplement their pay.

Meanwhile, the machinations of Eastland, Ellender and Poage have helped to persuade "Womanpower-in-Action," a coalition of women's organizations representing 47 million women, to crusade for Congressional reforms.

School For Dropouts

On New York City's lower East Side, a group of youngsters called the "Real Great Society" has set up what it calls the "Real University of the Streets" for high school dropouts.

"Classes" are located in refurbished storefronts, lofts, neighborhood flats—and the whole city of New York. Some 800 students are choosing their own courses, with subjects ranging from city planning to rat control. The teachers, mainly volunteers, include both PH.D.'s and neighborhood illiterates.

The Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington, which is providing financial backing for this unconventional school, hopes that many of the students will be persuaded to graduate from high school and continue on to college.

Also in New York, slum high school students with severe reading problems are being hired as tutors two days a week for grade school students with special reading problems, too. Early tests of the results of this imaginative program show that both groups achieve tremendous improvement in their reading abilities.

Similarly, in Tyler, Texas, sixth grade students will serve as "secretaries" to 100 second graders who will be introduced to creative writing by dictating stories to the older children. Again, both groups are expected to profit from the experience.

Next fall, in Philadelphia, an experimental "non school" is slated to begin operating. The school, for approximately 600 high school students, will blanket Philadelphia. The students will study art, for example, at the Philadelphia Museum of Art, English at the Public Library, writing at the offices of the Philadelphia Inquirer, and science at the Academy of Natural Sciences.

These are only a sampling of the dozens of innovative educational programs being planned or actually tried out in schools the nation over, in most cases with financial backing from the U.S. Office of Education. The efforts are in response to the nation's great need for far more quality along with quantity in the educational process.

Our national education bill to-day tops $58 billion, of which $7.8 billion comes from the Federal government. About one-third of the U.S. population is now involved in education, either as consumers of education or as producers, i.e., teachers, school builders, textbook publishers, administrators.

Yet we have few clues to how many of the billions are being wasted on ineffective teaching techniques and on production of obsolete knowledge and skills. While we have declared equal educational opportunities to all American children as a national goal, it is obvious we are not succeeding in this.

The Federal Government is spending $150 million a year on education research and development to support innovative educational projects and to disseminate promising research findings to schools across the country. But even this represents less than one per cent of the Federal Government's overall yearly investment in research and development.

The challenge is clear. To get the maximum returns on the billions we are spending for education and to equip today's youngsters with the knowledge, skills and problem-solving abilities essential for today's world of work, we must invest a much larger proportion of our educational billions in exploring new ways to teach and motivate children.

At the same time, the nation's school system, including teachers, administrators and P.T.A.'s, plus you and me must not just allow but must actually demand fresh and imaginative new approaches to teaching and learning. For centuries, private industrialists and entrepreneurs have known that innovation is a key to profits. Now it's the educational community's turn to learn that innovation is a key to quality.

Sheffield's 40-13 Victory Is Lone Bright Spot in County

Wolverines Pound 'Port With Ground, Air Game

By ROB SCHORMAN
SHEFFIELD — The Sheffield Wolverines combined a diversified offense with a tight defense to crush the Couderport Falcons 40-13 here Saturday afternoon.

Ted Morrison, Dave Rounds, Marc Zevotek, and Bob Shaffer all were consistent ground gainers as they ripped through the gaping holes the Sheffield line-men opened up. Whenever the ground attack slowed up, quarterback Tim Hecei went to the air to keep the drive alive. In the first half Hecei hit on four of five aerial attempts for seventy-five yards and two touchdowns.

The Sheffield defense was so effective that in the first quarter and a half, before the reserves took over, the Falcons could manage only two first downs and only ran fifteen offensive plays.

Sheffield took over on its own 42 and drove to the Falcons' forty in four plays to start its first scoring drive. Quarterback Hecei lofted a pass to Rob Hart, who grabbed the ball between two Couderport defenders on the twenty near the right sideline.

Hart bulled his way to the five, where he appeared to be stopped, but before he hit the ground he lateraled the ball to Zevotek, who raced into the endzone. Ted Morrison split the uprights to give the Wolverines a 7-0 lead.

The Sheffield defenders made their only serious mistake of the game on the ensuing kickoff. Carter McDonald booted the ball to the Couderport twenty, where John Wetzel grabbed it. The Wolverine defenders appeared to be too intent on sealing off the sidelines and Wetzel burst straight up the middle on an 80-yard touchdown run. Couderport's "Statue of Liberty" PAT try missed and Sheffield led 7-6.

The Sheffield ground attack then regained its momentum. Ted Morrison, who emerged as the game's leading rusher with 103 yards, went around left end for eleven yards. Two plays later Morrison again went around left end. He picked up six yards, then lateraled to Dave Rounds who picked up six more.

On the fourth and four from Couderport's seven, Hecei dropped back and hit Hart with a perfect pass in the right corner of the endzone. Morrison again kicked the point and Sheffield led 14-6.

Shortly before the end of the first quarter, Couderport's Dean Barrett, scrambling from a hard Wolverine pass rush, threw a wobbly pass that Marc Zevotek picked off to give Sheffield possession on the Falcons' twenty-five.

In six plays the Wolverines were on the two with a first and goal. On a quarterback keeper Hecei rammed into the endzone. Morrison converted again and Sheffield had a 21-6 lead.

Morrison grabbed a loose ball on the Falcon four yard line. On the first play fullback Rounds ripped off the right side of the line into the endzone. Morrison grabbed a high center snap ball and ran around left end into the endzone to add the point.

Couderport couldn't go anywhere and had to punt. Jay Duell took over at quarterback and directed the Wolverines down to the nineteen, where another illegal procedure made it second and fourteen. Duell dropped back and threw to Rounds, who made a diving catch at the one.

Duell then used three successive quarterback sneaks to take the ball into the endzone. This time Morrison's kick was too low, but the Wolverines still led 34-6.

Sheffield's reserves then took over on defense and held the Falcons scoreless.

The first string offensive unit made one final appearance in the initial moments of the third quarter. Hecei snuck in from the one to tally the Wolverines final points.

Couderport drove inside the Sheffield ten with about five minutes left in the game. Sophomore fullback John Moshier carried down to the two, then sophomore halfback John Hughes ran in for the score.

Hughes also ran for the extra point to complete the day's scoring.

Westfield Blanks Knights On Strong Aerial Attack

By DAN PRATZ
LANDER — The Eisenhower Knights were handed a heavy blow here Saturday afternoon at the hands of Westfield, N.Y., as the Wolverines topped the Blue and Gold gridgers 18-0 in the 1968 Ike homecoming game under sunny autumn skies.

Despite the final score, the Knights fought a vicious battle and were able to hold the powerful Wolverines on the ground. However, the frustrated Wolverines took to the air and caught the Blue and Gold off guard.

All three Westfield TD's were via the air route. Westfield quarterback Steve Larson utilized his strong arm to the full extent to slide the pigskin into the arm's of receivers for distances of 75 yards, 37 yards, and 13 yards.

Ike fielded a solid wall and a tight secondary through the first, second and third quarters. However the fourth stanza was utter disaster as Westfield profited on a pair of Ike mistakes to score two of their touchdowns in the final few minutes.

Clutching the ball in both hands, Youngville's Tom Burleigh (19) rolls around his left end for a gain in Saturday's game.

DRAGON MISCUES COSTLY

By DAVE PIRILLO
Errors are costly; be they mental or physical, it makes no difference. Warren's Dragons made several physical miscues and at least two mental muffs, and their bill was a 12-7 charge for their admission to Bradner Stadium in Olean.

The Dragons fumbled and lost the pigskin five times, while tossing for one interception. A holding penalty on the Warren line nullified an 85-yard sprint by Dan Krumm. The mental errors in Warren's defensive backfield were the most expensive.

touchdown. Left end John Driscoll ran a goal post pattern and breezed by the Warren safety man and halfback to catch the ball unmolested in the endzone, and bring the Olean eleven to within a point of their visitors at the half. A 16-yard pass, with under three minutes left in the game, went by the Warren secondary to set up the victory points.

The win marked the first time the Huskies registered a mark in the win column since the last game of the 1965 season, against the Owls of Bradford. In between wins Olean lost ten and battled to a scoreless tie. Warren did dominate the ground game in picking up 168 rushing yards, while holding the Huskies' ground game to just over 50 yards. However, the Huskies provided the remedy for their ailing runners. Larry Ksionzyk hit on five of seven tosses for 55 big yards.

Olean spotted Warren seven points midway in the first period when Tom Parr fumbled on his 30 and into the waiting hands of Warren's Lee Bryan. Steve Tundel and Dan Reynolds tested the hosts' line to move the ball to the Husky 24. Dan Krumm ripped up the middle on a quick opener to spring into the end zone for Warren's only touchdown. Tom Beckett lifted the extra point through the uprights.

After an unsuccessful series of plays by the Huskies, Warren found itself on the 35 and beginning to roll for what looked like another score. Krumm and Reynolds alternated runs through and around the Olean defensive wall. However, a fourth down incomplete pass stopped the drive on Olean's 20.

Long Pass Seals Penn State Win

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ahead by only one point in the third quarter, and with his team's national football reputation at stake, Penn State quarterback Chuck Burkhardt decided to go cherry picking.

The cherry he decided to pick was Tom Cherry, downfield, all by himself, and churning toward paydirt.

Burkhardt lobbed one to Cherry, who skipped 26 yards to score. The 76-yard play was regarded as the key to State's 21-6 victory Saturday over UCLA.

The Nittany Lions' nationally televised win before a stadium crowd of 35,778 accomplished several things:

—It upset those who felt Eastern football was inferior and that Penn State's grid prowess this year would die at the hands of the Bruins.

—It boosted the chances of third-ranked Penn State to climb into the No. 2 and possibly No. 1 national slot.

—And it took a lot of pressure off the Lions.

Penn State coach Joe Paterno commented: "We really wanted

Union City Scores Early To Rap Youngsville 12-6

By DENNY BONAVITA
YOUNGVILLE—While Pennsylvania's hunting season opened Saturday, the Bears of Union City refused to accept the role of the quarry. They pushed across two early touchdowns, then muffed Youngville's fourth-quarter comeback attempt to record a 12-6 victory here Saturday afternoon.

The victory gave Union City its third victory in six starts, and got the Bears back on the winning track after three previous drubbings in succession. For Youngville, it was the fifth defeat in six games.

Statistically, much of the game was a tossup. Union City showed but one yard advantage in total yardage, and the Eagles were 34 yards up in the yards passing column. But Union City's Jerry Briggs completed three of four passes, and the Bruins amassed 10 first downs to the hosts' six.

Union City started the scoring on its second series of downs, taking over via a punt on Youngville's 38. Scott Smith gained a yard off left tackle, quarterback Briggs added three on a keeper around his left end, and then left halfback John Hanley popped through the middle of the line on an inside reverse and went 34 yards for the score.

The extra point attempt was stopped, but Union City led, 6-0. As the second quarter started, Union City put on a six-play drive for its second touchdown of the day. This time starting on Youngville's 39, Smith ripped off 13 yards in two carries. Hanley added six on a draw up the middle, and Smith dove three yards.

Briggs got the crucial first down from the 17 via a QB sneak, and one play later Smith squirmed through left tackle, shook off two Eagle tacklers at the line, and found the end zone to make it 12-0.

Youngville came a m e back in three plays for the biggest play of the day and its lone touchdown.

Union City's Glenn McKinney boomed his kickoff to the Eagle 18, and Steve Stec's sweep attempt was foiled for a three-yard loss. Quarterback Tom Burleigh then fed Tom Randinelli up the middle, and the Eagle broke through the middle of the line and rumbled all the way to paydirt, shaking tacklers at his own 40 and UC's 35 en route.

Burleigh's kick missed to the right, and the score stood 12-6—as it would throughout the game.

Both teams' offenses sputtered through the third quarter,

Kane Raps Bradford

KANE — Some last-minute passing gave Kane High an upset 15-13 victory over highly-touted Bradford High here Saturday afternoon.

Trailing 13-8 with one minute to go, Kane received an Owl punt on the Bradford 35, and missed with two passes. Then quarterback Tom Danielson fired a scoring strike to Gary McCauley in the end zone, and Bill Chittester kicked the extra point to put the Wolves in front.

Time ran out on Bradford before the Owls could recoup the deficit.

Kane opened up a six-point lead on a first-period touchdown run of 15 yards by Skip Coulter after Dan Beckwith blocked an Owl punt, and added two on a safety when Owl Kevin Hart, back from his 12 to pass, slipped and fell in his end zone.

Bradford came right back with two touchdowns in the second quarter. Steve Kornacki intercepted a Kane pass and returned it 76 yards to the Wolves' nine, and following a penalty Hart zipped 14 yards around left end, Mike Carlson kicked the PAT.

Carlson intercepted another Kane pass moments later to set up the second Bradford touchdown. Bradford drove 42 yards in five plays, the touchdown coming on a 22-yard pass from Dave Ross to Terry Lopus. The extra point kick was blocked.

The win was Kane's fourth against two losses.

but Union City came alive in the fourth frame to reach the Eagle 12. It took 12 plays, with the big gainer a 21-yard pass from Briggs to John Clarke up the middle.

A clipping penalty at the 12 put the Bears back on the 27, and Youngville's John Campbell hit alternate quarterback Curt Anthony for a seven-yard loss on the next play to put UC in too deep a hole. The Bears punted into Youngville's end zone with two minutes left in the game.

Youngville staged a credible last-ditch drive to try and even the score, with Burleigh hitting Randinelli for 8 yards to the 37, but the drive went awry when Union City's Bob Burek intercepted a look-in pass at the Eagle 35.

The Bears ground out the remaining seconds on the ground to ensure their victory.

Happy Winner Veteran At 20

By DENNY BONAVITA

He's already a veteran fisherman at 20, has fished the Allegheny near Tidioute for nine years, and is dedicated enough to the angling sport to spend nearly 18 hours on the river in a day and a half.

And how he fished! Pittsburgh native and Slippery Rock State College senior John Hudec's winning 68 points were amassed with a stringer of fish that would make the oldest veteran proud.

His pretty wife of three months, 19-year-old Karen, was as enthusiastic as he about his winning performance. Wise beyond her years, she stood by smiling brilliantly while John fished in the limelight, but kept the $150 winning check firmly clutched in her grasp.

"I'm really happy for him," she exclaimed. "Although I didn't see him except to eat this weekend, I enjoyed Tidioute and the people up here very much."

John arrived in the area about noon Saturday, got his wife and friends settled, and was out on the water about 2 p.m. at his favorite spot, which he places at "about three miles below the Tidioute Bridge, near Yeager's Eddy."

He had barely settled down to serious fishing when he was five bass richer. "Right off the bat, there they were," John noted. "Then I hit a lull from about 4:30 to 6:00, but things picked up again around dark."

They picked up all right—John closed out the Saturday tournament with six walleye pike and another bass.

Thinking more walleyes might be lurking nearby, Hudec was back at the same spot before dawn. And he was right, for he brought in the limit again—six walleyes—between 4 and 5 a.m.

The bass were elusive until about 10 a.m., but then he hit a streak again, and brought five to boat.

Quite a feat—the limit of walleye and bass on one day, then turn around and snag six walleyes again, missing by one his bass limit for Sunday.

Hudec's youth, poise, and that ear-to-ear grin made him a big favorite with the crowd on hand, and the tall angler made friends among the small fry as he patiently answered their questions, posed for pictures, and swapped stories of river experiences.

He used spinning gear in his conquest, and depended on "minnies and helgrammites for the most part" to take his trophy-winning catch. Four fish fell to him on artificial lures, with the rest coming on live bait.

BIGGEST MUSKIE

Richard Ristau of Warren sports his stringer of fish following the tournament. Ristau's prize catch was the 38 3/4 inch muskie hanging at his left, which weighed in at 15 pounds eight ounces and earned him a first prize Saturday. Tidioute Welcomes 2000 Happy Fishermen To 1968 Pennsylvania Fishing Tournament

TIDIOUTE—Over 2000 fishermen are estimated to have tried their skill in the Allegheny River's waters this past weekend as the 1968 Pennsylvania Fishing Tournament drew droves of anglers to this area from throughout the state.

The first prize of a trophy and $150 went to twenty-year-old John Hudec, a Pittsburgh native currently completing his senior year at Slippery Rock State College. Hudec amassed 68 points to claim the title with a total catch of 12 walleye pike and 11 black bass.

Second place went to 1966 champion Bill Arrow of Ford City, who totalled 54 points in his attempt to recapture the crown.

A pair of southwestern Pennsylvania coal miners, Robert Divido of Nantiglo and Ralph Santucci of Clarksville, earned the third and fourth place trophies with 50 and 42 points respectively.

A change in scoring procedures from last year based the awards on 10 points for each muskellunge, eight for northern pike, 4 for walleye pike, and 2 for black bass.

Additional prizes of $25 and $15 were given out on Saturday night to the most successful entrants in each fish category.

Warren's Richard Ristau claimed first place in the muskie division with a 15 pound eight ounce 'lunge which waterways patrolman George Jones rated a citation fish.

Jack Minner of New Castle earned the second spot with a seven pound 14 ounce muskie.

First prize in the northern pike classification went to Don Grimm of Pittsburgh for a three-pound 11 ounce entry, while Richard Sadulski of Beckenridge, Pa., took home $15 for his three-pound nine ounce fish.

Divido headlined his second-place overall finish with a 10 pound two ounce walleye, good for first place in that division. Warren's Ristau entered a seven pound two ounce walleye good for the second spot.

Bass first prize went to Pleasantville's Doug Perret with a three pound eight ounce beauty, while Masontown's Raymond Kimmel showed a three pound one ounce bass for second place.

Tidioute Chamber of Commerce president Don Kline-stiver headed the organizers of the tourney, while the Tournament Director was Jim King of King Lumber Co.

This year's contest produced no out-of-state entries, but the number of catches recorded at tournament headquarters more than doubled last year's.

Saturday saw 160 fish being brought in by 42 entrants, while 67 fish hit the scales on Sunday from 14 anglers. Many more fish were taken than were recorded, as those anglers who felt they were out of the running did not bring their catches in.

Three muskies fell to the fishermen this season, with the contest fishing area being expanded to include all the Allegheny between the Kinzua Dam and the Hunter Station bridge below Tionesta.

Harry Burkan of Pittsburgh joined Ristau and Minner on the muskie list with a six pound 14 ounce.

The tournament drew several hundred persons to the closing ceremonies, which were emceed by State Representative William W. Allen.

Mr. Allen discussed the silt problem of this past summer, and noted that the Fish Commission's coho salmon stocking program is now bearing fruit in the form of a bountiful harvest of returning salmon in the feeder streams along Lake Erie.

He also introduced Robert Holmes, Mr. Allen's opposition in the coming general election.

On hand from the Pennsylvania Fish Commission were Joe Cappino of Forest County, Paul Swanson of Centre County, Bernard Ambrose of Elk County and George Jones of Warren County.

Jones, who acted as chief judge during the weighing and tagging of the fish, made some telling observations about the changing face of the Allegheny since the Kinzua Dam became a reality.

"This is a new river," he stated. "And some of the old fishing holes that used to give up great catches just aren't producing."

"I've talked to many fellows up here for the tournament, and I've found during this summer that the fellows who explore the river a bit are producing the best catches."

"I'd also like to remind you that the river will be open in the winter now, due to the dam. And I'd like to see more people who come up here for the hunting season take advantage of the fine fishing we have to offer."

Tournament director King and Mr. Allen then presented the winners with their trophies, and the fishermen adjourned to tourney headquarters to pick up their stringers.

The event proved a real boon to Tidioute and the entire Allegheny River basin, as King estimated over 5,000 people, including wives, children and friends along for the ride, were attracted to the area by the contest.

The weatherman cooperated with two beautiful days, and the fall foliage added a necklace of color to the decorated streets of Tidioute.

Third-place winner Divido stated that while he's not a Warren County resident, he has been into the area every weekend since March 31, and he termed the tourney weekend "the best weekend this year" for fishing.

R. C. Gibson of North Brad-dock won the Sportsman canoe which was raffled off by the tournament committee.

West Enders Win

A pickup team of West Side Boys beat Edinboro College 49-14 in an impromptu game at Carbon Field Sunday afternoon. The passing combination of Nick Creola to Jim Falvo clicked for the West Enders to produce the bulk of the scoring. Paul Johnston and Dave Bucha scored the EOC touchdowns.

Rams Get Past Packers On Gossett's Field Goal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bruce Gossett's 27-yard field goal in the closing seconds gave the Los Angeles Rams a nerve-jabbing 16-14 National Football League victory over Green Bay Sunday in a day laden with upsets.

A n interference penalty against Green Bay's Herb Adlerly set up the kick as the Rams remained tied with Baltimore for the Coastal Division lead with 5-0 records while Green Bay lost for the third time in five starts.

Baltimore smashed San Francisco 42-14 as John Mackey scored three touchdowns, two on passes from Earl Morrall and Johnny Unitas, and Preston Pearson returned the opening kickoff 96 yards for a score.

The lowly Atlanta Falcons broke an 11-game losing streak by clipping the previously unbeaten New York Giants 24-21, and New Orleans upset Minnesota 20-17 in the NFL.

Houston spilled the Boston Patriots 16-0, the Denver Broncos shocked the New York Jets 21-13

Rum Customer Wins Cane Pace

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — It was three against one in the $150,000 Cane Pace at Yonkers Raceway Saturday night. As might be expected, Rum Customer, one of the three, took the second leg of the pacing triple crown.

Rum Customer, an entry with Bye and Large and Tropic Song, rushed up from fourth place in the stretch and beat Fulla Napoleon, the loner, in the closing strides of a 1:59 4/5 mile.

A pass interception by Lee Calland with 1:16 left preserved Atlanta's upset and dropped the Giants out of a first place tie with Dallas in the Capitol Division. Bob Berry took over for injured quarterback Randy Johnson and led the fired up Falcons, who overcame three Fran Tarkenton scoring passes.

and San Diego surprised Oakland, last year's AFL champions, 23-14, in the American League.

In other NFL contests, Mel Farr slashed for three touchdowns as Detroit humbled the Chicago Bears 28-10; two interference calls set up two St. Louis touchdowns and the Cardinals nipped Cleveland 27-21; Sonny Jurgensen shook off a bad cold and fired two scoring passes in Washington's 16-13 triumph over Pittsburgh, and Dallas clobbered Philadelphia 34-14 as Don Meredith hurled two touchdown passes.

Elsewhere in the AFL, Kansas City whacked the surprising Cincinnati Bengals 13-3 on Jan Stenerud's two long field goals and replaced Oakland in first place in the Western Division. Miami and Buffalo tied 14-14 Saturday night.

Gossett's third field goal of the game wiped out a 14-13 Packers' lead supplied moments earlier when Tom Brown swept 52 yards for a touchdown on a punt return as Green Bay played without Bart Starr, who pulled a muscle in this throwing arm.

A great catch by Bill Truax of a Roman Gabriel pass gave the Rams a first down at the Green Bay 41 and then Adlerly was called for interference at the 25. Three plays later Gossett connected.

A pass interception by Lee Calland with 1:16 left preserved Atlanta's upset and dropped the Giants out of a first place tie with Dallas in the Capitol Division. Bob Berry took over for injured quarterback Randy Johnson and led the fired up Falcons, who overcame three Fran Tarkenton scoring passes.

Bob Davis, filling in for Pete Beathard, guided Houston to one touchdown and John Whittemore kicked three field goals as the Oilers climbed back into the Eastern Division race.

Steve Tensi's 72 yard touchdown pass to Eric Crabtree ignited Denver and the Broncos' defense picked off five Joe Namath passes and then stopped the Jets on the three yard line as time ran out.

Lance Alworth caught nine passes, one for a touchdown, and Dennis Partee kicked field goals of 29, 27 and 27 yards and San Diego ended Oakland's 14-game winning streak in regular season play.

Doc Says Olympics Unfair To Shorties

LONDON (AP) — The Olympic Games are unfair to little men and should include separate events for athletes with shorter legs, a British doctor said Friday.

Dr. Trikoke Khosla, a lecturer at the Welsh National School of Medicine, wrote in the British Medical Journal:

"It is suggested that there should be at least four classes based on height in some of the unfair open events—short, average and all heights, classes, as in judo."

BUSY DAY ON THE RIVER

COLLEGE ROUNDUP

Purdue Topples From Top Rating

Purdue students selling "We're No. 1" buttons went out of business during the weekend, and that means business is picking up for Southern California, Penn State and Ohio State.

Ohio State students still were chanting "We're No. 1" outside the locker room long after the Buckeyes, ranked fourth, started top-rated Purdue 13-0 Saturday.

"It was the greatest defensive effort I've ever seen," crowed Buckeye coach Woody Hayes, whose club revenge a 41-6 whipping by the Boilermakers in 1967. "Most great upsets occur that way. A great offensive team is stopped by a great defense."

Along with severely denting Purdue's hopes of a national championship, a Big Ten title and a trip to the Rose Bowl, Ohio State enhanced its own chances for any or all of the three.

The Buckeyes also opened the way up for second-ranked Southern Cal, which fought off Stanford 27-24 on O.J. Simpson's three touchdowns and a late field goal, and for third-ranked Penn State, which rolled over UCLA 21-6.

There should be plenty of shuffling behind them, too, after Kansas, No. 6, downed ninth-ranked Nebraska 23-13, and on Friday night, Miami of Florida upended Louisiana State, No. 8, 30-0.

Notre Dame, No. 5, overcame stubborn Northwestern 27-7; Florida, No. 7, powered past Tulane 24-3, and Tennessee stopped Georgia Tech 24-7.

Pitt Got Stomped In Second Half

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dave Havern kept the Pitt Panthers in the game for a half with his superb passing, but the little guy didn't get much help from the rushing game as the Orange of Syracuse crushed Pittsburgh 50-17 Saturday.

Havern, a sophomore, nearly set a school record, completing 21 of 38 passes for 343 yards. Bob Bestwick, quarterback, in 1951 holds the school record of 345 yards in a game against Michigan State.

But a rugged Syracuse defense took over just before intermission, scored a safety and a touchdown and set up two other scores.

Safetyman Cliff Ensley gave Syracuse all the margin it needed when he picked off a Havern pass on his own 47-yard line and raced 53 yards to the end zone just before the half ended.

And the big Orange held Pitt to a total of three yards rushing for the day.

Havern threw two touchdown passes, one a 67-yarder to Skip

Along with Stanford, several other teams in the second 10 found the going rough as Houston, No. 11, fell to Oklahoma State 21-17; Michigan State, No. 12, lost to Michigan 28-14; Mississippi, No. 13, was beaten by Georgia, No. 17, 21-7; California, No. 16, dropped a 10-7 decision at Army, and Kentucky dropped Oregon State, No. 20, 35-34.

Arkansas, No. 14, outscored Baylor 35-19 and Syracuse, No. 15, hammered Pittsburgh 50-17. Florida State, No. 19, was idle.

Purdue, with Leroy Keyes running and catching and Mike Phipps throwing, was a two-touchdown favorite to make Ohio State its fourth victim. But the Buckeyes leaned heavily on the pair before a record Ohio Stadium crowd of 84,834.

Keyes, an All-American and Heisman Trophy candidate, managed only 19 yards on seven carries and Phipps hit only 10 of 28 passes.

Interceptions brought both State touchdowns as Ted Provost grabbed a Phipps' pass 72 seconds into the final half and ran 34 yards for a score. Middle guard Jim Stillwagon picked off another aerial at the Purdue 26 late in the quarter and reserve quarterback Bill Long ran 14 yards for the touchdown.

Simpson three times brought Southern Cal from behind with touchdown runs of three, 46, and four yards as he carried 47 times for 220 yards. But the winning points came on Ron Ayala's 34-yard field goal early in the fourth period, breaking a 24-all tie.

Orszulak and a nine-yarder to George Medich in the big Pitt second quarter when they scored their 17 points. Joe McCain added a field goal.

But with a 21-point scoring spree in the final quarter Syracuse put the game out of reach.

Coach Dave Hart called the Orange the "strongest team we've played," and he added, "they battered us pretty well physically."

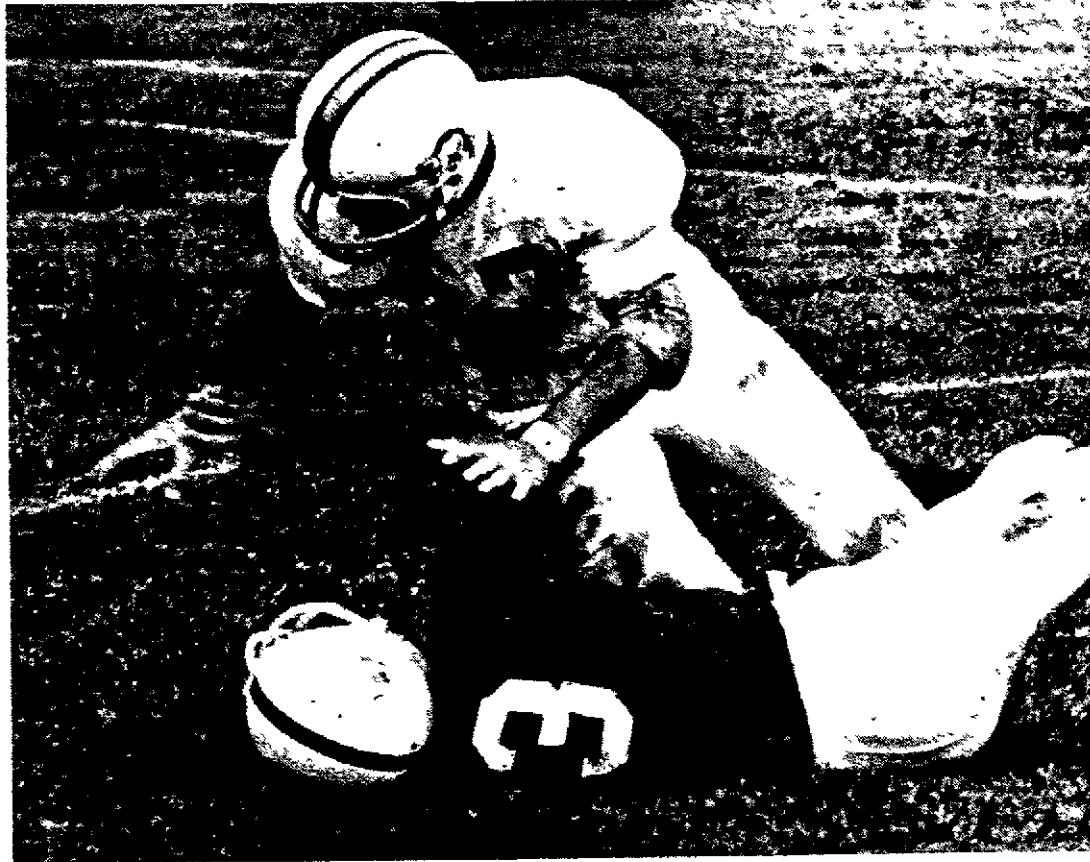

Hull Rejoins His Team

CHICAGO (AP) — Bobby Hull, goal-making ace of the Chicago Black Hawks who last week announced his retirement from hockey because of a salary dispute, signed a contract and was to play against New York Sunday night.

Hull, who announced his retirement Thursday after falling to get a $100,000 contract for the 1968-69 season, huddled with General Manager Tommy Ivan prior to Sunday night's game and the announcement of his signing came 20 minutes before game time.

Hull, who holds the NHL goal-making record of 54 a season, also has scored 50 and 52 goals in his 11 year career.

Hull was not available for comment before the game and it was not known the type of contract he signed or for how much. His previous contract, which had expired, was for three years, Hull, 29, missed Friday night's season opening 4-3 victory over St. Louis.

LOSES THIS ONE

Sheffield's Ted Morrison loses the ball only seven yards from the goal line during the second quarter of their game with Couderdport Saturday. Only two plays later, however, the ball popped loose in the Couderdport backfield and Morrison, who was the leading rusher in the game, pounced on it on the four yard line to set up a Wolverine touchdown.

Kenyan Runner Captures First Olympic Medal

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Net-tall Temu of Kenya captured the first gold medal with a thrilling stretch run in the 10,000 meters Sunday while Americans Randy Matson and Ron Whitney shattered Olympic records in preliminary events as competition in the 19th Olympic Games got under way.

Temu outran Mamo Wolde of Ethiopia in the driving finish of the 10,000 as Africans won all three medals in the event. Mohammed Gammoudi of Tunisia was third.

Matson and Whitney shared the first day spotlight with sprinters Charlie Greene, Jim Hines and Mel Pender, who zipped through 100 meter heats to semifinal berths, and the U.S. basketball team, which flattened Spain 81-40.

Matson, the Pampa, Tex., shot put king, heaved the 16 pound ball 67 feet, 10 1/4 inches, breaking the Olympic mark of 66-3 1/4 set by Dallas Long of the United States four years ago at Tokyo.

Matson, who was second to Long four years ago, holds the listed world record of 71-5 1/2. But he finished third at the U.S. team's trials last month behind George Woods and Dave Maggard.

Woods, of Los Angeles, was third Sunday with a heave of 64-11 1/4, finishing behind Russia's Eddardo Gushchin. Maggard, of Mountain View, Calif., had a 63-2 1/4 on his second attempt for seventh place and a qualifying spot for Monday's finals.

Whitney, of Boulder, Colo., sped through the third heat of the 400 meter hurdles in 49 seconds, breaking the Olympic standard and the listed world record. Glenn Davis set the Olympic record of 49.3 at Rome in 1960 and Rex Cawley holds the listed world mark of 49.1.

Geoffrey Vanderstock, of Los Angeles, who has a 48.8 pending world record for the event, finished third in his heat, but Boyd Gittens of Bellevue, Wash., the other U.S. entry, was scratched because of a pulled hamstring in his right leg.

Temu won the 10,000 by over taking Wolde on the final lap. Wolde held a one meter edge as the two runners tore into the final turn but the Kenyan wore him down, took the lead and won by about a meter.

Mohammed Gammoudi of Tunisia was third and Juan Martinez of Mexico, who had led most of the way, finished fourth.

Australia's Ron Clarke, the world record holder at 27:39.4, challenged for the lead with half a dozen laps to go but the pace proved too much and he finished fifth. Clarke collapsed at the end.

Temu's winning time was 29:27.4.

America's Lt. Billy Mills won the 10,000 in 1964 but failed to qualify this year when a stomach cramp hindered him at the final trials. Mills' time of 28:24.4 is the Olympic record.

Temu's winning time is considered somewhat slow for front rank 10,000 meter runners. It was not unexpected, however, because high altitude reduces performance in long distance events.

Jurgensen Flips Bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sonny Jurgensen, so sick that he laid down in a storage room and slept for two hours before the game, tossed two touchdown passes as Washington topped winless Pittsburgh 16-13 in a National Football League struggle Sunday.

Jurgensen, almost nailed on a safety on the first play of the winning touchdown drive, squirted away to race out of the end zone and start a 96-yard march which he capped with a 49-yard scoring strike to Jerry Smith in the third period.

Jurgensen threw 17 yards to Smith for the other Redskins touchdown in the first half.

What's the catch? There isn't any. $1,749* is the suggested retail price at the port of entry for the VW sedan.

The price includes the federal excise tax and import duty.

It also includes the built-in heater/defroster, windshield washer, electric windshield wipers, outside rearview mirror, padded dash, front seat headrests, and seat belts front and back.

Not to mention the new electric rear-window defogger and the new ignition/steering lock. (When the key is removed, the steering wheel is locked in place.)

It's the price of the real thing, not a stripped-down economy model.

What else do you have to pay? The charge for transporting the car from the port of entry. The dealer delivery charge. And local sales tax.

There is one optional that makes a lot of sense. The automatic stick shift. (It eliminates the clutch pedal.)

Well, that's it. Unless, of course, you count the cost of gas and oil it takes you to get here in your present car.

A GAS WATER HEATER GIVES YOU ALL THE HOT WATER YOU'LL EVER NEED. AND THEN SOME.

And that's good. You really need more hot water than you need because you never know when you'll need it. Right?

What you don't need is a shower that suddenly gives you the cold shoulder, or the tedious wait for a kilowater heater to recover from delivering a tubful of hot water. You need a water heater that lasts a long time. And who ever heard of a flame wearing out?

And of course a Gas water heater delivers all the hot water a modern family needs for less than half the cost of heating water with electricity. You can probably find some need for the money you save. Most folks do.

State Race for U.S. Senate Likely To Be Cliffhanger

(Editors note: The following is the first in a series on some of the major U.S. Senate races to be decided Nov. 5.)

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — In Pennsylvania, the important U.S. Senate fight involves a strong dove against a mild hawk, age against youth, and how the three-cornered race for president goes.

The direction is in doubt. Though the Vietnam war is a big issue, there are differences on law and order, gun controls, funds for rebuilding cities—and the result Nov. 5 likely will be a cliffhanger, with the Democratic incumbent considered in deep trouble.

Joseph Sili Clark, the veteran, graying Democrat seeking a third six-year term, is used to tough battles. His victories in 1956 and 1962 were close, both times reversing Republican top-of-the-ticket trends in the Keystone State. He predicts he'll do it again.

Republican challenger Richard S. Schweiker is a youthful, more photogenic for television, anyway, four-term Congressman from the middle-class, white-collar Philadelphia suburbs. He is hoping Clark's penchant to alienate his own party supporters will provide enough "anti" muscle to give him the election.

Clark, 67, is the dove. The former Philadelphia mayor proudly dates his opposition to the Vietnam fighting back to 1965 when it was an unpopular position. Now, he says, other politicians are hollering "me too."

Schweiker, 42, supports generally the present American war policy, including the limited bombing. He even claims it is a posture he promoted before President Johnson adopted it.

The cagey Clark, a tough campaigner with solid labor and liberal support, pooh-poohs and he-ha's this war stance, says Schweiker has neither foreign policy nor military expertise.

Clark, a millionaire lawyer twice-divorced and recently remarried, insists he's "a man who owns his own soul... with guts enough to tell it like it is." In this vein he says frankly that the Democrats are in trouble in Pennsylvania, that they must carry Philadelphia by at least 250,000 to win the state. His 1962 margin in his hometown was 180,000; it was 171,000 in 1956.

Again and again, in face-to-face television debate with Schweiker—they've already met three times with one more go-round set for the end of October—Clark twits his GOP opponent for always being against everything, and also accuses him of lying.

"Now, you know, Dick, that is an untruth," is the way Clark hurls back statements made by Schweiker.

But the congressman, unflinching, flings Clark's words right back, often quoting from the senator's speeches, statements and letters.

Both men are considered in the liberal mold. Schweiker has been likened, on the national GOP scene, as a young comer in the image of Mayor John Lindsay of New York. When they serve together in Congress their views frequently coincided.

Schweiker has been criss-crossing the state in his effort to reach as many of Pennsylvania's five million registered voters as possible. He walks the streets of middle-class neighborhoods, plops the worn bricks of the slum areas, shakes thousands of hands at factory gates, works the aisles and checkout counters of supermarkets.

"I think you just have to get out and meet the people," says Schweiker, a handsome, outgoing father of four, his youthful exuberance, face unmarked by age, is sharply contrasted to the picture Clark presents, Clark, recognizing this, asks voters to look at his face — "there are some lines in it, lines of care and concern."

Until recently Clark confined his appearances to the TV debates and some party rallies. Apparently miffed at Schweiker claims that he's afraid to face the voters, Clark has started weekend street campaigning and is being seen more frequently at labor and community gatherings.

But Clark hasn't softened his bluntness. Asked once when taxes might be reduced, he replied, "Look, my friend, you can't sit on your rear end... and let the rest of the world go round. I'm not going to do anything to reduce your taxes... The needs of the cities are too desperate."

The race actually hasn't fired up any hard voter interest. Neither man is attracting big crowds on his own—only when they share the same platform with their party's candidates for president or vice president.

Polls so far are inconclusive. Pennsylvania Democrats have paid for one that gives Clark and vice president Hubert H. Humphrey the edge. Republicans, contrarily, say their paid pollster finds Schweiker and Richard M. Nixon will be the winners. Independent observers view both races a toss-up.

In the end, the result may depend on just how much strength George C. Wallace, the third party presidential candidate, drains away from Humphrey and Nixon. This variously estimated at from 6 to 25 per cent, with more possible Democratic defections.

There are three minor party candidates in the race: Frank Gaydos, Constitutional; Benson Perry, Socialist-Labor; and Mrs. Pearl Chertov, Militant Workers. Few expect them to make any impact or affect the outcome.

To Share Platform

Dr. Neil Swinton, professor of surgery at the Lahey Clinic, Boston, Mass., and Dr. James T. Grace Jr., director of Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y., will share the platform at the fall meeting of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American College of Surgeons. The meeting will be held Oct. 30 at the Maennerchor Club, Erie. Discussions by the doctors will begin at 3:30 p.m. and be followed by dinner at 7 p.m.

Allegheny National Forest is Setting for War Game

By BETTY RICE

Deep in the Allegheny National Forest, some 200 members of the U.S. Special Forces are engaged in a war game—a game, however, that is deadly serious.

While all the men participating are “Green Berets,” part of them are playing the role of aggressor and are identified as Circle Trigon. These, then, clad in a conglomeration of clothing with a significant patch on each shoulder—are the “bad guys.”

A-Team—“good guys”—wear the typical uniform of the Green Berets. The elite 11th Special Services Company of the U.S. Army Reserve covers the entire nation east of the Mississippi. Company B. takes in Pennsylvania, Delaware and Ohio. This is the group now carrying out the exercise simulating hypothetical conditions when a foreign aggressor power has overrun the countryside.

Capt. Lawrence Gerthoffer, Circle Trigon commander, explained that when aggressors are in an area, U.S. Forces send in the Special Service groups to train civilians into regular underground military units.

The entire exercise is geared to give training to special forces “A” detachment. These parachuted in Wednesday night. By Friday of last week guerillas and A teams had infiltrated the designated areas in ANF.

Complete administrative headquarters has been set up to direct the war games. The Green Berets are equipped to handle everything connected with the operation.

The occupied area is also the scene of Army jeeps and transport trucks and the efficiency of the motor pool was noted Friday afternoon when at approximately 1330 a two and a half ton transport, faced with a car coming in the opposite direction, was forced into a deep ditch where it overturned onto its side.

From headquarters a wrecker was dispatched and within 25 minutes the disabled transport was back on the roadway. There were no injuries.

Some 1,400 cases of C-rations were unloaded from a tractor-trailer at headquarters while another vehicle carries tools for maintenance of vehicles.

A ward room has been set up with maps and progress bulletins pertaining to the war operation. The group includes a doctor and two medics in a central clearing station. Each team in the field has its own medic should treatment be immediately required.

While the headquarter's first aid station is not equipped to treat the seriously ill or injured or perform surgery, in case of actual war, the medic would be called upon to perform such duties. During the current exercise, anyone seriously ill or injured is referred to Warren General Hospital.

Medics train at Ft. Sam Houston in Texas, putting in 39 weeks following basic training of eight weeks.

Officers note that guerilla training is essential in many areas of present-day warfare and defense forces are aware of the possibility of attempts to overtake the United States—as well as other areas around the globe by Communists rulers if it appeared to their advantage. The civilian population, in connection with the operation, are urged to distinguish between the “invaders” with the dark, mismatched uniforms and the guerillas and U.S. Special Forces, the Green Berets.

Bulletins ask the populace upon coming in contact with a member of the Green Berets to give him all help, food, shelter and cooperation at their disposal. Their goal is to force the Circle Trigon party to pack up its equipment, take its trucks and soldiers and leave the county.

These are tough fighting men—intent on their war game. It is anticipated the conflict will end Oct. 19 with the Green Berets and guerillas the victors.

CARE FOR INJURED

Dr. Joseph Longo, captain in charge of the U.S. Special Forces clearing station for first aid, displays equipment being used in the current war games. Capt. Longo explained each team in the field has its own medic on the spot. During the exercise, however, should cases of serious illness or injury arise, these will be referred to Warren General Hospital.

BRIEFING

In the U.S. Special Forces' briefing room, the Green Beret Maneuver Field Control Staff, engaged in war games in Allegheny National Forest, review strategy for the day. Pictured, from left, are Capt. T. J. Fanning, S-Sgt. Bill Worthington, M-Sgt. Wilbur Davis and S-Sgt. Ronald Geary. These are members of the teams attempting to route invading forces from the county—these are the “good guys” who ask all civilians to cooperate with the exercise on the side of the Green Berets.

MEDICAL SERVICE

Army Medical Service is on the scene at the U.S. Special Forces command post deep in Allegheny National Forest. A garage has been converted into a well equipped first aid station manned (see below) by Capt. Joseph Longo, right, captain in charge and Sfc. Lester Bortmas, left, a medic in the Korean war. Not pictured is the second medic, Sfc. Roger Hobson.

'BAD GUYS'

U.S. Special Forces are currently engaged in war games in Allegheny National Forest and area civilians are asked to be on the lookout for a hypothetical group of “Trigon Troops” which has invaded the county. Pictured are the “bad guys”, prior to taking off for a patrol in search of the Green Berets, parachuted in to organize guerilla

SET UP

Members of the U.S. Special Forces Motor Pool are on hand during simulated war games to keep all vehicles in operation. They were put to the test Friday when a transport truck was ditched and overturned in the Farnsworth Run area. Pictured are Cpt. Harry Chapman, Left, and Norman S. Rhodes, a sergeant in the reserves, of Franklin Area Maintenance Shop, who participated in the war games last year. They are assisted by John Keltz, not pictured.

AMBUSH

The beauty and tranquility of Allegheny National Forest is currently hiding members of U.S. Special Forces engaged in a serious war game. Here two members of Circle Trigon troops, S-Sgt. Michael Kirmeyer, Pittsburgh, Pa. (below) and Sgt. first class Raymond W. Patrick (left), Crabtree, Pa., both “bad guys” set up an ambush against the Green Berets. Note the blue diamond on the white circle which identifies the aggressor.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am only 15 and haven't formed solid ideas about a lot of things. One thing I am really undecided about is hippies.

It seems to me they stand for love and peace. Is that bad? In these times when there is so much unrest in the world—so much hate and killing and anger— isn't love a good thing to talk up? What's bad about people handing each other flowers? Why are some people against the hippies? Maybe the hippies are the answer to the world's problems. I don't think I've ever seen anything about hippies in your column. Please tell me what you think about them. -- WILLING TO LEARN

DEAR WILLING: I'm for peace and love, and I like flowers as well as the next person, but I also believe in work, soap and water, reality and doing something constructive to make this a better world. Lying in the grass in groups, shunning employment, smoking pot and freak-ing out, solves no problems.

The hippies have nothing to offer but criticism. They are cop-outs and moochers. What they call love is often a temporary feeling of euphoria produced by drugs. At the beginning of the hippie movement many sincere people were impressed with their idealism and applauded their protest against the ugliness of the world. But as time passed, it became clear that the true idealists were grossly outnumbered by the phonies, the hop heads and the cowards who flocked to the scene.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In July of last year, our church organist began to put on weight. Two months later she quit her job, left town and the word got around that she had given birth to a child.

This woman is no teen-ager. She is nearly 30 and old enough to know better than to get into a jam like that. She gave the baby away like it was a cat or a dog.

Now the grand lady of the manor has returned to the city thin as a rail and her hair is a different color. She smiles a lot and acts as if she had had a six month vacation in Switzerland. Everyone is supposed to accept her, ask no questions and play dumb.

Why should she get away with such immoral behavior? Now it is the townspeople who are on trial. It suddenly becomes OUR responsibility to be gracious and overlook everything.

Don't tell me to mind my own business. This person happens to be my cousin and therefore what she does IS my business. Do you have an answer? -- SUNFLOWER

DEAR SUN: What would you like the woman to do-- wear a scarlet letter and hold a question-and-answer forum in the main lobby of the Post Office every morning between 10:00 a.m. and noon?

Instead of giving her credit for holding her head up, you seem annoyed that her unfortunate experience didn't crush her spirit and wreck her life. People like you give me indigestion.

Confidential to Thumbs Up Or Down: I'd say thumbs sideways on this one. Legally you can do it -- but morally and taste-wise you'd be a rotten egg.

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism -- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Couple Pledge Vows In Church Of SS. Peter & Paul

Diane Louise Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller of R.D. 1, Clarendon, became the bride of Thomas Wayne Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson of 91 Fairmount avenue, Jamestown, N.Y., on Saturday, October 12, at 12 o'clock noon, in SS. Peter and Paul Roman Catholic Church in Jamestown. The Rev. Father Denman Dewey read the double ring rites in the presence of one hundred and fifty wedding guests.

The organist was Brian Bogey and Mary Ann Bender was the vocalist. All white flower arrangements of mums, pompons and snapdragons adorned the altar, with pedestal arrangements of white chrysanthemums at either side.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin faille. Alencon lace re-embroidered with seed pearls enhanced the bodice of the gown which had a portrait neckline and long bell sleeves finished in rich scallops of the lace. The a-line of the skirt was defined with bands of the lace and the Watteau train of chapel length was also enriched with borders of the lace. Her bouffant veil of English silk illusion was caught to a scalloped crown of lace and seed pearls and aurora borealis. She carried a cascade of white bridal roses and garlands of ivy.

The maid of honor, Miss Mary Dunham of Warren, was in a gown of hot pink Chantilly type lace and a floret headdress with pearl trim secured her bouffant veil of illusion. Dressed similarly, but in light pink were the bridesmaids, Miss Patty Reed of Warren and Sherry Landas of Youngsville. All carried identical "Bouquets of Elegance." The flower girl was Miss Amy Jo Spencer of RD 1, Clarendon, who wore a frock of white taffeta with lace, with floral headdress and carried a white basket of pink and white sweetheart roses.

The best man was James Miller of Erie, and ushers were Robert Barber of Jamestown, cousin of the groom, David Nitterauer of Dunkirk, N.Y., and Richard Anderson of Jamestown, brother of the groom.

A reception was held in the Glade Township Fire Hall. Among the one hundred and fifty guests present was Mrs. Viola Miller, grandmother of the groom. Aides at the reception were Mrs. John Harris and Mrs. Bruce Spencer.

Hints From Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Metal garters make wonderful coat hooks for children. Before you throw out a girdle, remove the elastic and button portion of the garter and sew it to the label in the back of the child's coat. It's a wonderful and easy way for children to hang up their clothes on the coat closet hooks at school.

Teacher

It's a good idea. We mothers really appreciate all you teachers who work so hard to help our children.

Bless you all for your patience and kindnesses.

LETTER OF TRUTH

DEAR HELOISE:
Can a man make a complaint and also offer a cure for it?

It seems that every time I go to the supermarket to shop, and am lined up at the check-out counter, there are several customers ahead with carts loaded down with groceries.

Most of them wait until the groceries are all checked out, and then, and only then, do they start making out a check. Usually they ask the date and the amount of the purchase while the rest of us cool our heels.

Well, I also pay for my purchases by check. But I fill in the name of the store, date and sign it as I wait impatiently in line. Or stop in an aisle and do it before getting in the checking line.

Then when I am ready to pay, all that is left to do is fill in the amount which takes very little time!

D. H.

Sir, I know your letter referred to women customers, but I took the liberty to change it to include all customers.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Shoulder pads are a thing of the past. If you have any old ones on hand, they make real good pot holders.

Take two three-cornered ones and sew them together in the middle to form a square. Then cover with a scrap of material.

You'll find that you've got a dandy pad to hold hot dishes.

Help For Needy Family From Club

At the meeting last week of the Pre-School Child Development Study Group, money and canned goods were collected from members to aid a needy family in Warren. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Peter Smith, 201 Pioneer street. Mrs. James Watt, president, presided.

After the brief business meeting, Dr. J. A. Fino, guest speaker, spoke on sex education for children.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lawrence Whitton, chairman; Mrs. Thomas Ristau and Mrs. Larry Gardner.

The Halls Of Ivy

The Capitol Campus, of The Pennsylvania State University, at Middletown, announces more than 1,000 students enrolled there and among them is John K. Pierson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Pierson of 504 Conewango avenue.

Thomas A. Leathers Jr., of North Warren, is enrolled at Case Western Reserve University, at Cleveland, Ohio, where he is among those who made the Dean's List at Case Institute of Technology, for academic achievement in the 1968 Spring term.

Robert Arnold, son of Mrs. Richard D. Arnold of 103 Main avenue, has been elected president of Phi Sigma Tau, National Honor Society in Philosophy at Washington & Jefferson College in Washing-

DEAR HELOISE:

I have a hint for knitters. When the instructions call for "binding off," it is easy to forget in the middle how many we've already done.

So to help me, I count the number of stitches to be bound off plus one (don't forget the plus one because you need two stitches on the needle to bind off).

Then I put a safety pin through the last stitch to be bound off. I remove the pin when I'm ready for that last stitch. Great! No more forgetting.

Mrs. Barbara Orkline

DEAR HELOISE:

For anyone who uses the antique furniture kits, please tell them to use one of your famous nylon net balls instead of the cheesecloth that comes in the kit.

You obtain a real grain look with half the effort.

Janice Henry

You just told 'em, Angel. Thanks.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a hint for people who live alone.

When I was alone recently, I got sore muscles in the middle of my shoulders. After trying unsuccessfully to put liniment on the sore spot with the shoe polish-type dauber that came in the bottle, I remembered that I had bought a new dishwasher sponge recently and hadn't used it yet.

It has a sponge piece fastened on a plastic handle. So I took it and saturated the sponge part with liniment and applied it to the sore spot easily.

Now I keep that one in the bathroom just for this purpose and bought another one for doing dishes.

Here's why new Gas Dryers are best for your family's Permanent Press

Your Freedom of the Press means NO (or, very little) "TOUCH UP" for Permanent Press... if you have a gas dryer. Reason? Gas was made for your Permanent Press. Your Permanent Press was made for Gas.

Gas Dryer Permanent Press cycles automatically cool clothes down, then blow them back into shape. Irons out all wrinkles. Resets the original band-box press.

Gas Secret? Gas Control! Gas reacts instantly to deliver each phase necessary to bring back the Permanent Press: gentles, relaxes, cools the fabric.

For other types of clothing, the gentle zephyr-action of Gas fluffs clothes dry to softness your skin will thank you for.

Gas is faster. Gas speeds up laundry time. Gas costs less than 1/3 of any other type of drying.

Your Freedom of the Press is a Gas Dryer. New Gas ideas make the big difference. Have a Great Day!

GELATIN DESSERTS

Q. Gelatin desserts seem to be favored by hospitals. Is gelatin highly nutritious or is its frequent use just a matter of economy?

A. Gelatin is a favorite of hospital dietitians because it is easily digested and can be used in just about all dietary regimens required by hospitalized patients. Gelatin desserts are appetizing, attractive and well accepted by most people. Gelatin, while nutritious, is not a "complete" protein (one supplying all essential factors). However this is offset by other foods which supply the proteins absent in gelatin.

RADISHES AND MUSHROOMS

Q. Do radishes and mushrooms have any nutritional value or are they merely decorative?

A. Both radishes and mushrooms have special qualities. Many people are not aware that three small radishes provide about one third the Recommended Daily Allowance of vitamin C. Mushrooms, if eaten in sufficient quantity, are a good source of niacin and iron. In addition, mushrooms have a way of transforming the most simple meal into a gourmet's delight.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(The Chicago Tribune)
ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠AJ10854 ♥2 OAK ♣AK103
What is your response?
A.—Two spades. Despite the lack of a support for partner, your hand is so strong as to suggest a probable slam even in face of the misfit. Your hand is worth 22 points, and the slam signal should be flashed at once.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KJ864 ♥AQ32 ♦1052 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1 O 1 Pass ?

What do you bid?
A.—Three hearts. In this sequence such a jump is not forcing but strongly urges partner to go on. There is nothing to be gained by bidding one spade.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠76 ♥Q5 ♦AK852 ♠AQJ6
The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 O Pass 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—You hold somewhat more than you might have for previous bids and we would not be inclined to give up without making one mild try for game. Our recommended bid is, therefore, three hearts. In view of partner's rebid your Q-5 of hearts are adequate support.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQJ864 ♥642 ♦A953
The bidding has proceeded: North East South 1 O Dbles ?

What action do you take?
A.—Two spades. We treat the single jump in this sequence as a one round force. It describes an unbalanced hand with a good spade suit, but announces that the hand is not suitable for a redouble.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠398752 ♦AJ92 ♠J9
The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 3 A 3 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. It is true that a superior contract might be found in hearts, but on the other hand there's a distinct probability that the backbone of partner's three-trump bid is a long club suit and that his failure to double is based on a lack of preparation for the "other major."

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠843 ♥AQ2 ♦A1082 ♠A97
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 A Pass 2 NT Pass 4 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Further action on your part is indicated. Your 14 points are of the highest possible quality and the hand is the equal of most 15-point hands. A bid of six no trump is acceptable to this department, but a bid of at least five no trump we look upon as mandatory.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠Q1094 ♥A862 ♦Q42 ♠75
The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 O 3 ♣ Pass Pass Dbles ?

What action do you take?
A.—Vigorous action on your part is indicated. On the first round you were prevented from showing your moderate values by East's preemptive tactics. You ought to think in terms of game, and that a bid of three hearts or three spades, being forced, would be quite inadequate. Nor should you attempt to guess the right major suit. A false cue bid of four clubs is indicated and will force partner to make the selection.

Q. 8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠10642 ♥KJ1085 ♦A62 ♠7
The bidding has proceeded: East South West North 1 A Pass 2 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Three hearts. Bids of this character are attended with a certain amount of danger but we consider the risk to be well calculated. Since the bidding subsided at an early stage it may be concluded that partner has some appreciable high card values and, since he probably has a singleton spade, your dummy rates to show up with a suitable number of hearts.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR MONDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1968

ARIES (Mar. 21 to April 20)—If there's a choice, you will normally make the right one. With a word of command you can marshal great numbers to your cause. You are the master of what you do and say, so be sure! TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Alliance to right purposes are your way. You may be pre-empted at times, but it won't make any difference because you will gather many around you to hear what you have to say anyway. Visiting is one of your enjoyments.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—If you are a glossary of facts, it is because you have accumulated them since childhood. Calendar the events in which you must participate. Singly, or in a crowd you stand out. You call for facts.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—With few exceptions you are "classy," dignified. When disciplined, you are loving, lovely child. Don't relinquish your rights to authority. But discuss and debate and really talk things over.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—If, and I say IF, matters are not going as they should, you can set them right. Moreover you can instigate new maneuvers, tactics that will be more palatable to all. You never prolong anything boring.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—You can surpass even your own efforts now, and in the weeks to come. Rarely do you find a preposterous or compounded condition that you cannot handle. You can expand under any management.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—If it's excessive, it's not for you. You have empathy with all and will stand up for the underdog. Ever energetic, ever reaching out for new ideas and fields, and you find them, too. Don't delay.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Don't take the long way around when you know the shorter one. Prolongation of whatever bothers always makes it worse. Your attractive personality cannot come through if you won't permit.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—You can work with the best of them, or pull something out of the dregs. The main stream of events seem to run across this sector. In culminating what you do, you will help more than you think.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Approaching what you must do is most important, and understanding goes with this. You have an Achilles Heel and not everyone recognizes it. You are hospitable and like to be arduous in what you do.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—The performer, the receptive of justifiable things, and the always questioning go with your personality. Once you latch on to a project you never let go. Enthusiasm fine, fanaticism out!

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—With a keen sense for the true feelings of others and with responsiveness you are always aiding your fellowman. And if it is your last platitude you will not be miserly. You are a tourist who enjoys.

YOU BORN TODAY: Never do you sleep on the job and you are always exchanging ideas with others. Both experience and the written word are your teachers. You like to stay current with the score to date. Today's accountant may well be tomorrow's manager. Excellent at bookkeeping, computing financial moves and in journalism. You settle your accounts promptly and present a most admirable front (because inside you it is the same). You wish all a hearty endeavor, and remain spontaneous on the whole. No machine can match your wit, and your associates know it.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(c) 1968 By The Chicago Tribune

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

BE A GOOD HUNTER

This is the season for needless slaughter. Thousands of hunters go into woods, lakes, and fields for deer, pheasants, ducks, and rabbits. Game are not the only ones to lose their lives. More than 2,200 persons are killed annually and three-fifths of huntersmen are shot by members of their own party.

"I didn't know it was loaded" is a useless alibi. Mortalities could be reduced if all firearms were regarded as loaded and if they never were pointed at anything the sportsman did not intend to shoot. Careless handling of weapons is an unpardonable sin and anyone who is guilty never should be asked again to go hunting. Such an individual is a dangerous companion.

Firearms etiquette is well-known. A loaded weapon never should be carried in the car or left unattended, indoors or out. The same can be said when climbing fences or taking time out to eat lunch or take a break. Never pull a gun, barrel first, from a boat, car, or fence.

Hunters should walk side by side, this is the safest way. Walking tandem is less desirable but if the path is narrow, the first man should point the barrel forward and down; the second should point it backward. Explosions occur now and then when dirt or mud is blocking the barrel. To avoid this pitfall, examine the gun before loading.

Middle-aged or older men should avoid overexertion, especially sedentary workers. Every year, heart attacks fell hunters who are walking through the brush or retrieving game. Don't try to lift a full grown deer or drag the carcass miles to the car. Hunting is a demanding sport that requires stamina and common sense. Anyone who has been ill or has a history of heart trouble should not hunt alone.

TOMORROW: Women Athletes.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

REACTION TO VACCINATION

Mrs. P. writes: Our infant daughter has eczema and my physician said she should not be vaccinated against smallpox until her skin is clear. Is this common practice?

REPLY

In recent years our concepts on this question have changed. It is wise to postpone vaccination until all signs of dermatitis and eczema have disappeared. Vaccination at this time is likely to be followed by severe reactions and at least one fatality has been reported.

GUM AND ANGINA

A reader writes: Would constantly chewing gum have any effect on a man 72 with angina? He has done this for about two years.

REPLY

No harm, provided the gum doesn't get in the way of the nitroglycerin tablet that is placed under the tongue when chest pain appears.

Register Before Oct. 16 For Story Hour

Mrs. Ellen H. Eberly, children's librarian at the Warren Public Library, reminds parents of pre-school and kindergarten children from three to five that October 16 is the deadline for accepting registrations for story hours. Registrations to late have been very gratifying, but additional boys and girls can be accommodated if registrations are made promptly.

Mrs. Eberly will conduct the story hours each Wednesday from 10:00 until 10:30. Groups of twelve children will be scheduled for each series of story hours, the number of sessions in each series to be determined by the response. Boys and girls from three to five years of age at the time of registration, including kindergarten children, will be accepted.

Parents may register their children at the main desk at the Warren Public Library or by telephone. In the event that a series of programs may be run to accommodate all boys and girls wishing to attend pre-school story hours, parents are asked to indicate the most convenient time for their children to attend -- fall, the first of next year, or early spring.

Mrs. Eberly also noted that there is a possibility of scheduling an afternoon story hour if the response from those with children in morning kindergarten classes warrants. These parents may call the library to indicate their interest in an afternoon story hour.

Car quit? See HFC

It will provide cash so you can buy wherever you find the best value. What's more, before you borrow from HFC you'll know what your loan will cost—in dollars and cents. Need something big? Buy it with a Big Purchase Loan from HFC.

Before you sign on the dotted line, know what your loan will cost.

save a bundle

on a flameless electric dryer

You bet there's a difference between gas and electric dryers! Up to $40 difference in your pocket when you go electric. And that's just the beginning. Consider:

Less Maintenance. Electric dryers have up to 14 fewer parts than gas. This means more years of operation, low-cost upkeep.

Cleaner washes, cleaner house. Electric dryers operate kilowatt-clean for the life of the dryer. Clothes come out sunshine fresh, colors bright. Gas dryers tend to "burn dirty" with age, soil surrounding areas.

Needs only one fuel. Plug it in and you're all set. (Gas dryers need gas and electricity to operate.)

Now, isn't it good to know that the best costs you less. Save a bundle at your appliance dealer's now!

Attitudes & Platitudes

Jerry Marcus

"It had power brakes, power windows, power seats and a jerk behind the power steering."

Reckless driving was involved in more than one third of the personal injury accidents in 1967.

Six-Year-Old Is Computer Whiz

NEW YORK (AP) — When Danny Jacoby grows up, he wants to be a computer programmer. That is, when he grows up to be 11.

In the meantime, the tousle-haired 6-year-old is content with attending computer classes at New York University after his regular grade school day.

Danny took his first computer course this past summer under Henry Mullish, a professor of computer science, who is amazed still at Danny's performance in the five-day intensive course designed for college professors.

"It was something I've never experienced in my life," said Mullish. "The last day I asked him to add up two matrices. I just wanted him to give the answer. But no, he wanted to come to the blackboard, so he totted up."

"Then I thought he would give the answer but no, he gave the lecture on how to add two matrices. What's more he gave the lecture in exactly the same way I would do it."

Danny's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Jacoby, say he began to talk at the age of one, read at three and combined the two into an insatiable curiosity and an inordinate facility for remembering almost everything and translating it into numbers.

Mrs. Jacoby is an NYU computer programmer and he is an actor-director.

Danny, who does math at a ninth grade level now, taught himself long division and decimals, she said.

The Jacobys are not concerned that Danny will have a one-sided education. He loves baseball and "warms up" for computer programming by doing cartwheels.

Russell Area News

The Russell Cub Scout Pack 14 meeting will be held in the Russell Fire Hall, Thursday, Oct. 17, at 7 p.m.

It will be a Halloween Party and all Cub Scouts, mothers and dads are urged to come in costume. Games and refreshments will follow a short program.

Anyone in the Russell area who would like to donate apples for making cider, call Mrs. Paul Motz, 757-8560 or Mrs. John Biekar k at 723-1887. Any boy in the 5th grade or who is 10 years old is invited to come to the next Den meeting Oct. 14 at the firehall 7 p.m. or call either of the above members.

The Webelos Den met at the firehall for their first meeting of the year, when Mrs. Louise Motz explained the new Webelos uniforms, books, projects and badges to be worked on during the year.

Den 1 met at the Den Mother's, Mrs. Donald Andersen's home and opened with playing "Ghosts and Goblins." Den Mother appointed Brian Hall, Denner and Joey Schmitt, assistant Denner. Denner Hall opened the meeting with forming a hollow square around the flag and all repeated the Cub Scout Promise. Each boy brought one ingredient and mixed all together in waffle cups and baked to prove that each boy must contribute something to make a successful Den.

Halloween hats and chains were made for decorations for the Pack meet on Oct. 17.

A sound effect Halloween story was read and for closing the Cubs formed a living circle and repeated the law of the pack and ate the cupcakes they had made.

Justice Michael Musmanno To Be Buried at Arlington

JUSTICE MUSMANNO

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Michael A. Musmanno, Pennsylvania Supreme Court justice, prolific writer, fervent patriot and a judge at war crimes trials following World War II, died at the age of 71.

The justice, who frequently stirred controversy by speaking out on issues of the day, died of a stroke at Mercy Hospital Saturday night.

Death came to the jurist on Columbus Day, a holiday that he cherished while defending the Italian explorer from detractors who sought to prove that other men had discovered America.

Justice Musmanno, himself the son of Italian immigrants, was to have been grand marshal of the Columbus Day Parade in Pittsburgh on Saturday.

But the day before, he was removed unconscious from his downtown Pittsburgh apartment and rushed to the hospital, having suffered a stroke during the night.

Although paralyzed along his right side and unable to speak, the justice rallied and was able to answer his doctors' questions by squeezing their hands in a form of code.

But that night he took a turn for the worse. Death came at 9:05 p.m., Saturday.

Mass will be sung Wednesday at St. Paul's Cathedral in Pittsburgh with the Most. Rev. John J. Wright, bishop of the Pittsburgh Roman Catholic Diocese, giving the homily.

The mass will be celebrated by the Rev. Arthur Tambucci, assistant pastor of the Mother of Sorrows Church in suburban Stowe Township, where Justice Musmanno was born.

Burial will be in the Arlington National Cemetery, just outside the nation's capital, but the date was not immediately set.

Until the services Wednesday, the jurist's body will lie in state at the Anthony Musmanno Funeral Home in Stowe. The mortician and the justice were cousins.

Even as arrangements for the services were being completed, expressions of sorrow poured in from men prominent in varied fields.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer said, "Justice Musmanno's legal acuity, his wit, and his courage to say and fight for what he believed have left their mark on all men who knew—or knew of—this outstanding jurist."

U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark of Philadelphia, like Musmanno a Democrat but often at political odds with the justice, commented:

"Justice Musmanno's death is a real loss to the people of Pennsylvania. For many years he had been most active as a lawyer, as a jurist, as a leader of the Italo-American community and as a friend of labor."

Mayor James H. J. Tate of Philadelphia said, "There was no field of endeavor where Justice Musmanno did not add an illustrious chapter to history in his eloquence, his wisdom, and his courageous determination in the cause of righteousness."

Mayor Joseph M. Barr of Pittsburgh described Musmanno as "a warm and compassionate man, a man of humble beginnings who won international acclaim as a jurist."

Yissakhar Ben-Yaacov, the

Israeli consul general in Philadelphia, said Musmanno was "a great and noble son of the American nation and a distinguished friend of the Jewish people."

Musmanno was as striking in appearance as was his long and many-faceted career. A slight figure with a shock of white hair and intent eyes, he gestured freely, his head waving to and fro with emphasis as he warmed to his topic, whether in ordinary conversation or making a speech.

From his humble beginnings, the justice worked as a coal miner and a steel mill hand before going on to college. He was graduated from George Washington University and received his law degree from Georgetown University.

He never really stopped his formal education, doing post-graduate work at Harvard and Oxford and, as recently as a few years ago, at Notre Dame.

He served as a defense lawyer in the famed Sacco-Vanzetti case, the trial of two New England men who were subsequently put to death on murder charges. He never relented in his efforts to clear the names of the pair, who he claimed were victims of a miscarriage of justice.

Musmanno was an assemblyman in the Pennsylvania Legislature in the late 1920s and early 1930s and led movements to abolish the Coal and Iron Police, outlaw the Communist Party in Pennsylvania and legalize Sunday movies and Sunday baseball.

He first became a judge in 1931 when he was elected to the Allegheny County Court. Two years later, he was elected to Common Pleas Court and was reelected in 1943.

In 1951, he was elected to the Supreme Court and, at the time of his death, was next in line to succeed Chief Justice John C. Bell Jr. as head of the state's highest court.

Another highlight of his judicial career was his appointment by President Truman as presiding judge of Military Tribunal II in Germany at the close of World War II.

The proceedings were a part of the war crimes trials of Nazi leaders.

Musmanno had served in the Army during the first World War. When World War II erupted, he was commissioned a lieutenant commander in the Navy, rose to the rank of captain and later was promoted to rear admiral in the Naval Reserves.

He served as Naval aide to Gen. Mark Clark during the Po River crossing in Italy during the war.

For all his achievements in the fields of law and government, the justice perhaps was as well known for his writing. Among the books he turned out were "Black Fury," a tale of the coal fields that was made into a popular motion picture starring Paul Muni in the 1930s; "Ten Days to Die," a factual narrative about the last days of Hitler and the Third Reich which also was made into a movie.

His other books included "The Man and the Soldier" — "The War in Italy" — and "The Eichmann Kommandos" — all stories based on his wartime experiences.

One goal always eluded Musmanno. It was a seat in the U.S. Senate. He sought the Democratic nomination in 1964, and won the support of the state Democratic organization, only to be edged by Genevieve Blatt in the primary.

The justice laid much of the blame for his defeat with Sen. Clark, who supported Miss Blatt in the campaign.

Early this year, Justice Musmanno seriously considered running against Clark for the Democratic nomination, but decided against it.

Even until a few days before his death, the elderly justice was full of his characteristic zeal. He made a speech, continuing his attacks against the U.S. Supreme Court, which he felt was too soft on criminals.

The justice recommended that Supreme Court justices be appointed for 10-year terms, rather than for a lifetime.
